

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
-----------------	-----

Heinz Tschachler Introductory Remarks	9
-------------------------------------------------	---

Part 1: The Almighty Dollar and Identity: People, Places, and Times

Stephen Mihm The Almighty Dollar at Home and Abroad: Transnational History and the Currency Question	27
-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

Louis Kern In the Land of the Dollar, but Which Dollar? The “Crime of ’73,” the Free Silver Crusade, and the Populist Dollar	45
--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

Veronika Timpe Beyond Face Value: Images of Slaves on Nineteenth-Century American Currency	63
---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

Kathleen Loock Goodbye Columbus, Hello Abe! – Changing Imagery on U.S. Paper Money and the Negotiation of American National Identity	81
---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

Valerie Neal Dollar$, Sense, and $paceflight: What is the U.S. Space Program Worth?	103
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

Claudia Schwarz Rich Americans Who Never Lived	117
----------------------------------------------------------	-----

Part 2: The Almighty Dollar in Literature, Film, and Popular Culture

Nadja Gernalzick Sacrificial or Legal: Money in American Literature – Charles Brockden Brown, James Fenimore Cooper, Frank Norris, Ezra Pound, Don DeLillo	137
Eva Boesenberg Self-Made Women, Spent Men? Money and Gender in U.S. American Novels since the 1980s	159
Katja Urbatsch Gold Standard versus Fiat Money: Frank Norris's McTeague , Don DeLillo's Cosmopolis , and the New Economic Criticism	181
Eriko Ogihara Golden Peril? Monetary Representations of Asians in Twentieth-Century Detective Fiction	195
Ralph J. Poole Blonde Bombshell and Homely Housewife: Selling the Woman in 1950s Hollywood Comedies	209
Stefan L. Brandt The American Dream as a Tall Tale: Story-Telling and Cultural Mythology in F. Scott Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby and the Coen Brothers' Fargo	223
Astrid M. Fellner Is It All About the Dough? Paris Hilton in Austria	237
Gerda E. Moser Pleasure, Ethics, and the Economy – Learning from Paris Hilton	255
Contributors	265
The Editors	271