

Table of Contents

List of Figures XV

List of Tables.....XVII

Summary XIX

Zusammenfassung XXI

1. Introduction 1

 1.1. Problem Statement..... 1

 1.2. Research Questions and General Proceedings 3

 1.3. Thesis Structure 4

2. What Next Taylorism is all about? Facts and Challenges 7

 2.1. Mind Map for Next Taylorism: A State of Problems..... 7

 2.1.1. Digital and New Taylorism in Mass Media..... 8

 2.1.2. Knowledge Work from a Scientific Perspective 9

 2.1.3. Knowledge Work related Challenges for Manufacturers 11

 2.2. Variables of Next Taylorism 15

 2.2.1. Computer Communication: The Primary Knowledge Work
 System 16

 2.2.2. The Human Factor in Manufacturing: A New Role in Work
 Processes 17

 2.2.3. Social/Technical Systems: A Complex Web 19

 2.3. Initial Conclusion I: The Purpose of Research on Next Taylorism 20

 2.3.1. Focus 21

 2.3.2. Mission..... 23

2.3.3. Vision	23
3. What Knowledge Work is all about? The Status Quo of Scientific Rules...	25
3.1. Basic Principles of Knowledge	27
3.1.1. Data, Information and Knowledge.....	28
3.1.2. Knowledge and Non-Knowledge.....	30
3.2. Basic Principles of Work.....	32
3.2.1. The Division of Work	33
3.2.2. Distinctions of Work in Manufacturing.....	34
3.2.3. Working Definition of Knowledge Work.....	38
3.3. Scientific Accesses to Knowledge Work	39
3.3.1. The Transaction-based View	40
3.3.2. The Interaction-based View	41
3.3.3. The Communication-based View	43
3.4. Initial Conclusion II: Structural Holes and Missing Links	46
4. How to Observe Knowledge Work: A New Heuristic Standpoint	49
4.1. The Basic Problem of Maturana.....	50
4.1.1. Discovering and Inventing.....	51
4.1.2. Copy Theory vs. Constructivism	52
4.2. How Knowledge Work is Done: Principles of Inquiry and Reasoning.....	53
4.2.1. Deduction – Induction – Abduction.....	53
4.2.2. Abduction as a Form of Knowledge Creation	55
4.2.3. Why Abduction?	56
4.2.4. Applications of Principles of Inquiry.....	58
4.3. Initial Conclusion III: A Case for Next Taylorism	60

5. Operationalization for Observing Knowledge Work: Configuration of Rules	63
5.1. Theoretical Background I: System Theory	64
5.1.1. Foundations of System Theory	64
5.1.2. Observing Systems.....	66
5.1.3. Core Concepts of a Theory of Social Systems	71
5.2. Theoretical Background II: Laws of Form.....	80
5.2.1. The Calculus of Indication.....	80
5.2.2. The Application of the Calculus	82
5.3. Initial Conclusion IV: A Comparative Analysis of Facts and Rules	84
6. Taylorism and Scientific Management: Algorithms of Manual Work	87
6.1. Developing a Calculus of Taylorism.....	87
6.2. The Distinction of Manual Work and Knowledge Work.....	90
6.2.1. Manual Work and MTM: The Scientific Management's Paradigm of Time-Motion Studies	92
6.2.2. The Re-entry Form of Taylorism: Productivity and Motivation	98
6.2.3. Stabilizing Differences within a Hierarchical Management Structure	104
6.3. The Functions of Taylorism in Large-Scale Corporations.....	108
6.3.1. A Control and Monitoring Concept for Productivity	108
6.3.2. Engineerial Autonomy and Harmonization of Industrial Relations.....	110
6.3.3. Algorithmization of Manual Work	111
6.4. Initial Conclusion V: How Taylorism Works	113

7. Next Taylorism: Coordination and Control of Knowledge Work	115
7.1. Developing a Calculus of Next Taylorism	117
7.2. The Distinction of Knowledge Work(s) and MXM	121
7.3. Identification of Operations: The Self-Alignments of Knowledge Work.....	124
7.3.1. SWAT: Subjective Workload Assessment Technique	126
7.3.2. Visualization with VennMaker	128
7.3.3. Features of Knowledge work Operations	132
7.4. Towards MXM: The Self-Embeddings of Knowledge Work.....	133
7.4.1. Eigenfunctions: Social Mechanisms of Selection.....	135
7.4.1.1. Theoretical Access	135
7.4.1.2. Methodological Access	136
7.4.1.2. Evaluation of the Method.....	139
7.4.2. Eigenbehavior of Knowledge Work: Discovering Actual and Nominal States	141
7.4.2.1. Theoretical Access	141
7.4.2.2. Methodological Operationalizations	143
7.4.2.3. Computer-Aided Social Network Analysis	145
7.4.2.4. Empirical Plausibilization I: The Actual State of a Knowledge work Network.....	150
7.4.2.5. Empirical Plausibilization II: The Nominal State of Knowledge work Networks	155
7.4.2.6. Evaluation of the Method.....	158
7.4.3. Enabling Reflexivity of Knowledge Work	159
7.5. Networks and the Self-Observations of Knowledge Work.....	160
7.5.1. Managerial Requirements for Knowledge work Networks.....	161
7.5.2. Insights to Network Theory	162

7.5.3. The Limitation of Reflexion	164
7.6. The Re-entry Form of Next Taylorism.....	165
7.6.1. The Productivity of Knowledge Work.....	166
7.6.2. Motivational Media: Money and Values	168
7.7. The Functions of Next Taylorism	171
7.7.1. Coordination and Control of Knowledge Work	171
7.7.2. Taylorizing the Knowledge Worker	172
7.8. Initial Conclusions VI: How Next Taylorism Works.....	174
8. Discussion and Conclusion	177
8.1. Résumé and Management Implications: Results Revisited	177
8.2. Limitations of Methodology and Applications	179
8.3. Fields of Further Research.....	181
8.4. Conclusion: What we have learned	184
List of References.....	XXV