

Table of Contents

1 Introduction: Does the struggle over the future of European integration generate new concepts? 1

1.1 A brief word on methodology6

1.2 Pro-European think tanks7

1.3 The links between pro-European think tanks and other think tanks..... 11

2 Conceptual innovations for a new Europe?..... 22

2.1 Expanded European citizenship 25

2.2 Mainstream analysis: Expanded European citizenship..... 27

2.3 Transnational democracy 28

2.4 Mainstream analysis: Transnational democracy..... 31

2.5 European public interest economy 32

2.6 Mainstream analysis: European public interest economy 36

2.7 Transnational civic/public sphere..... 36

2.8 Mainstream analysis: Transnational civic/public sphere 40

2.9 Europe as central power in global political economy 40

2.10 Mainstream analysis: Europe as central power in global political economy..... 42

2.11 Conclusion of conceptual development in pro-European think tanks..... 42

3 Conceptual work in debating platforms 43

3.1 Limited interest in expanded European citizenship 46

3.2 Significant interest in transnational democracy 48

3.3 European public interest economy: marginal interest..... 53

3.4 Varied perspectives on transnational civic/public sphere 55

4 Overall conclusion..... 59

5 Annex..... 63

5.1 Tables 63

5.2 Description of debating platforms 68

5.3 Literature..... 70

5.4 List of interviews 72