

Outline:

	Page:
1. Introduction	9
2. A Theory of Subcreation – Terminology and Definition	13
2.1. J.R.R. Tolkien's Idea of Subcreation	15
2.2. The Source of 'Subcreation': Tolkien's Essay and Associated Works	19
2.3. A Theory of Subcreation – A Working Vocabulary	23
2.4. Subcreation Today – Revising a Definition	43
2.5. Alternatives to Subcreation – Mimesis and Worldbuilding/ Worldmaking	47
2.6. Terms Connected to Subcreation – Imagination, Fancy, and Fantasy	55
2.7. The Subcreator – Maker on Many Levels	57
3. Aspects of Subcreation	63
3.1. Language and Linguistic Variation	67
3.1.1. Language and Linguistic Variation in Discworld and Otherland	85
3.2. Physiopoeia – Physics and Physiology	95
3.2.1. The Fundamental Idea of an Anglophone World: The 'World' and the World in the Elizabethan Age	99
3.2.2. Physics and Chemistry	103
3.2.3. Geology and Geography	109
3.2.4. Biology	113
3.2.5. Physiopoeia in Discworld and Otherland	120
3.3. Anthropoeia – Anthropology	131
3.3.1. Society	133
3.3.2. Culture	145
3.3.3. Anthropoeia in Discworld and Otherland	151
3.4. Mythopoeia – Mythology	157
3.4.1. Mythopoeia in Discworld and Otherland	177

Acknowledgments

Bibliography

Appendix