

Herausgeber: Alois Mayr

Frank-Dieter Grimm

Schriftleitung: Isolde Brade

Joachim Burdack, Frank-Dieter Grimm, Leo Paul (Eds.)

The political geography of current ✓ East-West relations

*Papers presented at the 28th International Geographical Congress
The Hague 1996*

Contents

1.	Introduction	8
	FRANK-DIETER GRIMM, JOACHIM BURDACK
I.	Urban areas and the emerging European metropolitan system	17
2.	External forces and the changing structure of urban migration pattern: evidence from Berlin since unification	18
	GERHARD O. BRAUN, MICHAEL TIEFELSDORF
3.	Prague on the move as well as marching on the spot – an analysis of internal and international migration movements	33
	DUŠAN DRBOHLAV, ZDENĚK ČERMÁK
4.	Central European capitals in the European metropolitan system	45
	GYÖRGY ENYEDI
5.	The changing role of Tallinn, Estonia in the Baltic Sea Region	52
	MERJE KUUS, GARRI RAAGMAA
II.	East-West economic relations	65
6.	The changing volumes of Swedish trade with the former Soviet Union 1992-1995	66
	ALF BRODIN
7.	Crossing borders in port networks: towards co-operation between Rotterdam and ports in the Baltic Rim	80
	H.A. VAN KLINK
8.	Changes in the European gateway system - the case of seaports	88
	HELMUT NUHN
9.	Some recent changes in the political position of Finland with reference to trade and logistics	103
	MAURI PALOMÄKI
10.	Foreign direct investment in the Romanian industry	113
	CLAUDIA POPESCU
11.	The geography of foreign direct investment in Central and Eastern Europe: inputs to an extended analysis	121
	ÖRJAN SJÖBERG, MARIANNE JOSEFSON
III.	New migration patterns	135
12.	A multidimensional approach to modern migration processes on the ex-Soviet territory	136
	MARINA BOROVIK, L.CHEMBERKO
13.	The emigration potential of Central Europe	142
	HEINZ FASSMANN, CHRISTIANE HINTERMANN
14.	The external migration of Romanians between 1989 and 1996	153
	COSTELA IORDACHE

15.	Migrations in Russia and the former Soviet Union ZHANNA ZAYONCHKOVSKAJA, PAVEL POLIAN	159
IV.	Boundaries and border regions	177
16.	Maritime boundaries in the Adriatic MLADEN KLEMENČIĆ	178
17.	The phenomenon of new border regions in Russia VLADIMIR KOLOSSOV	183
18.	The split-up of Czechoslovakia: some consequences PETER MARIOT, ANTONÍN VAISHAR	194
19.	Socio-economic aspects of the operation of the split town of Guben/Gubin ROMAN MATYKOWSKI, KATJA SCHAEFER	205
V.	Minorities and ethnic conflicts	213
20.	Ethnically mixed regions in the Polish conceptions of regionalisation: the Opole Region in Silesia KRYSTIAN HEFFNER	214
21.	Autonomy for Hungarians in Romania: why, and why not. The pros and cons of autonomy rights for the Hungarian minority in Transylvania. JEROEN VAN MARLE, LEO PAUL	231
22.	Ethnic minorities and regional organisations in the Polish elections of 1991 and 1993 ROMAN MATYKOWSKI, ANNA TOBOLSKA	242
23.	Ethnic differentiation of Russia and the former Soviet Union as potential source of conflict JÖRG STADELBAUER	252
VI.	Geopolitics and the changing political landscape
24.	Central and nation state concepts in Eastern Europe as obstacles for European integration PETER JORDAN	266
25.	Regional disparities and political party preferences in Hungary ZOLTÁN KOVÁCS	273
26.	Between West and East? – Mapping Finland’s geopolitical position in the global system of states ANSSI PAASI	288
27.	Towards an analysis of the geographical and geopolitical position of Slovakia: historical context and current perspective JÁN PAULOV	297
28.	Regional perceptions of marginality in the Carpathian Euroregion ISTVÁN SÜLI-ZAKAR, JAMES CORRIGAN	308