

Contents

I. Purpose and Outline of the Study	1
II. Opening Up for Foreign Capital: Strategies and Effects	8
1. Balance of Payments Development	8
2. Reform Process.....	10
2.1 Capital Controls and Convertibility	10
2.2 Exchange Rate Policy	15
2.3 Fiscal Policy	18
2.4 Banking Reform.....	19
2.5 Privatization.....	25
3. Structure of Capital Flows	29
3.1 Gross and Net Capital Flows	29
3.2 Capital Inflows Intermediated by Banks.....	33
3.3 Stock of External Debt.....	37
4. Summary.....	38
Appendix to Chapter II.....	40
III. Degree of Integration into International Capital Markets	43
5. The Concept of Capital Mobility	43
6. Interest Parity Conditions	44
6.1 On- and Offshore Interest Rate Differentials	47
6.2 Uncovered Interest Parity	50
6.3 Covered Interest Parity	56
7. Bond and Equity Markets	58
7.1 Capital Asset Pricing Model	58
7.2 Market Opportunities.....	60
7.3 Cointegration with Foreign Stock Markets	64

8. Saving-Investment Correlations.....	70
8.1 Stylized Facts.....	72
8.2 Correlation of Saving and Investment.....	75
9. Degree of Monetary Autonomy.....	77
9.1 Measurement Issues.....	79
9.2 Stylized Facts.....	80
9.3 Estimates of Offset Coefficients.....	83
10. Summary.....	87
Appendix to Chapter III.....	90
IV. The Structure of Capital Flows: Determinants and Growth Effects.....	96
11. Capital Flows and Economic Growth.....	96
12. The Value of Waiting.....	99
12.1 Uncertainty, Irreversibility, and Foreign Investment.....	101
12.2 Economic Policy and Investment Decisions.....	105
12.3 Policy Implications.....	107
13. Foreign Direct Investment versus Portfolio Capital.....	109
13.1 Foreign Direct Investment.....	110
13.2 Portfolio Capital and Asset Diversification.....	116
14. Summary.....	121
V. Balance of Payments Crises: Causes and Consequences.....	123
15. Preventing Balance of Payments Crises.....	124
15.1 The Baseline Model.....	125
15.2 Extensions.....	128
16. Twin Crises and the Role of Banks.....	130
16.1 Causes of Twin Crises.....	131
16.2 Foreign Borrowing of Banks.....	133
16.3 Relevance of the Feedback Effects.....	139
16.4 Policy Implications and Extensions.....	142

List of Tables

Table 1 — Convertibility in Selected Transition Economies — An Overview	12
Table 2 — Profitability of Commercial Banks, 1992–1997	21
Table 3 — Privatization Indicators, 1990–1997	26
Table 4 — Gross World Capital Flows, 1989–1996	29
Table 5 — Net Capital Flows to Transition Economies, 1989–1997	30
Table 6 — Net Capital Inflows in Relation to GDP	31
Table 7 — Structure of Gross Capital Inflows, 1989–1996	32
Table 8 — Capital Imports through Commercial Banks, 1989–1997	34
Table 9 — Share of Banks in Total Foreign Loans for Various Regions, 1991–1997	35
Table 10 — Debt Indicators, 1989–1997	37
Table 11 — Monthly Bond and Equity Returns in Eastern and Western Europe, 1994–1998	62
Table 12 — Unit Root Tests for Stock Market Indices, 1994–1998	66
Table 13 — Cointegration of Stock Indices, 1994–1998	68
Table 14 — Correlation between Saving and Investment, 1980–1997	76
Table 15 — Composition of the Monetary Base, 1990–1997	81
Table 16 — Composition of the Broad Money Stock, 1990–1997	83
Table 17 — Earlier Estimates of Offset Coefficients	84
Table 18 — Poland: Estimates of Offset Coefficients	85
Table 19 — Contribution of FDI to Gross Capital Formation, 1985–1995	111
Table 20 — Sectoral and Regional Structure of Stocks of Inward FDI	112
Table 21 — Share of Capital Goods in Total Imports, 1992–1996	128
Table 22 — Change in Foreign Liabilities during Twin Crises	141
Table 23 — Dollar Wage Gaps at the Onset of Transition	157
Table 24 — Chile: Transactions Taxes and Real Exchange Rate Volatility	178
Table 25 — Volume and Volatility of Quarterly Capital Flows, 1993–1997	179

Table 26 — Share of Short-Term Credit in Foreign Liabilities, 1992–1997	182
Table 27 — Free Movement of Capital and of Financial Services in the EU	191
Table 28 — Capital Inflows and Investment before and after Accession to the EU	199
Table A1 — Czech Republic: Balance of Payments, 1993–1997	40
Table A2 — Estonia: Balance of Payments, 1993–1997	40
Table A3 — Hungary: Balance of Payments, 1991–1997	41
Table A4 — Poland: Balance of Payments, 1991–1997	42

17. Equilibrium Real Appreciation versus Overvaluation	145
17.1 Concepts of the Real Exchange Rate	149
17.2 Equilibrium Real Appreciation	151
17.3 Real Exchange Rate Misalignment	155
17.4 Empirical Evidence.....	156
18. The Role of Capital Controls.....	164
18.1 Taxing Capital Flows: A Conceptual Framework.....	165
18.2 Second Thoughts on Capital Controls	171
18.3 Empirical Evidence.....	174
18.4 Implications for the Transition Economies	182
19. Summary.....	183
Appendix to Chapter V.....	185
VI. Future Integration into International Capital Markets.....	188
20. The Role of EU Enlargement.....	188
20.1 Institutional Framework.....	189
20.2 Implications for the Banking Sector	192
20.3 Implications for Capital Flows.....	196
20.4 Lessons from Southern Enlargement	197
21. The Role of New Financial Instruments	201
21.1 Derivatives, Capital Mobility, and Monetary Policy	201
21.2 Derivatives and Volatility in Foreign Exchange Markets	207
21.3 Policy Implications	210
VII. Summary	212
Epilogue.....	222
Contagion Effects	222
Capital Controls for Russia?.....	224
References	228
Index	249

List of Figures

Figure 1 — Nominal Exchange Rates to the Dollar, 1990–1998	16
Figure 2 — Net Foreign Assets of Commercial Banks, 1989–1997	36
Figure 3 — On- and Offshore Interest Rate Differentials for Various Countries	48
Figure 4 — Uncovered Interest Parity, 1991–1997	52
Figure 5 — Uncovered Interest Parity Based on Exchange Rate Forecasts, 1995–1998	55
Figure 6 — Czech Republic: Deviations from Covered Interest Parity, 1996–1998	57
Figure 7 — Coefficients of Variations of Stock Market Returns, 1995– 1998	64
Figure 8 — Share of Investment and Saving in GDP, 1989–1997	74
Figure 9 — Offset Coefficients for Poland, 1992–1997	87
Figure 10 — Welfare Gains from a Liberalization of Capital Flows	97
Figure 11 — Volatility of the Money Supply and the Value of the Real Option to Invest	106
Figure 12 — Mean Reversion and the Value of the Real Option to Invest	107
Figure 13 — Foreign Borrowing and the Timing of the Collapse	139
Figure 14 — Real Exchange Rates, 1990–1998	148
Figure 15 — Real and Nominal Exchange Rates, 1990–1998	159
Figure 16 — Transactions Taxes and Macroeconomic Dynamics	168
Figure 17 — Transactions Taxes and Exchange Rate Dynamics	170
Figure 18 — Chile: Volatility of Net Capital Inflows, 1992–1997	175
Figure 19 — Real Exchange Rate Volatility in Chile and Germany, 1981–1998	177
Figure 20 — Real Exchange Rate Volatility in Transition Economies, 1991–1998	178
Figure 21 — Poland: Volatility of Net Capital Inflows, 1993–1997	181
Figure 22 — Hungary: Volatility of Net Capital Inflows, 1992–1997	181
Figure 23 — Hungary: Exchange Rate Expectations in Currency Futures, 1996–1998	205

Figure A1 — Nominal Interest Rate Differentials in Eastern and Southern Europe, 1990–1998.....	90
Figure A2 — Increase in Domestic Money Demand	93
Figure A3 — Decline in International Interest Rates	94
Figure A4 — Increase in Domestic Productivity	95