

Contents

Preface.	7
------------------	---

Introduction: National Paradigms of Migration Research. By Michael Bommers and Dietrich Thränhardt	9
--	---

Part I: Immigration as a Part of National Identity: Two Traditional Immigration Countries

Canadian Multiculturalism as an Ethos, Policy and Conceptual Lens for Immigration Research. By Oliver Schmidtke	41
---	----

Aborigines, Anglos and Asians – Discourses on Multiculturalism and National Identity in Australian Migration Research. By Sigrid Baringhorst	61
---	----

Part II: How to Integrate Migration into Old Nation State Narratives

How to Face Reality. Genres of Discourse within Dutch Minorities Research. By Baukje Prins	81
--	----

Beyond the Race Relations Model: Old Patterns and New Trends in Britain. By Karen Schönwälder	109
---	-----

Migration Research in Germany: The Emergence of a Generalised Research Field in a Reluctant Immigration Country. By Michael Bommers	127
---	-----

Migration Studies in Austria – Research at the Margins? By Bernhard Perchinig.	187
--	-----

Part III: Emerging Research in New Migration Countries

Italy – Migration Research Coming of Age. By Tiziana Caponio	207
---	-----

Japan: A Non-Immigration Country Discusses Migration. By Takashi Kibe and Dietrich Thränhardt.	233
--	-----

Migration Research in a Transformation Country: The Polish Case.
By Krystyna Iglicka 259

Part IV:
New Nation States:
Defining Nations and Their Migration Contexts

India and its Diaspora. Changing Research and Policy Paradigms.
By Daniel Naujoks 269

The National Context of Migration Research in Malaysia.
Which Nation, What State, Whose Migration? By Diana Wong 301

A Paradigm for Nigerian Migration Research? By Dirk van den Boom 315

The Authors 323