

Contents

A personal note	8
Preface	16
The architectural concept and its implementation
Architecture is made for people. A phenomenological approach to architecture	21
The holistic approach to architecture. The relationship between the parts and the whole	23
The planning process itself	25
The beauty is in the detail. The detail – pure functionalism derived from the whole	33
Choosing the colors for the building	34
A dialogue between the qualities of tradition and modern technology	35
Selected buildings and projects
Public buildings
Music center and library in Tel Aviv	40
Ohel Shem community and school library, Ramat Gan	56
Music library in Tel Aviv	64
Central city library and resource center in Haifa	70
Ir Yamim community center, Natanya	76
The Maimonides Central Sephardic Synagogue, Hadera	80
Memorial Site for the Fallen Intelligence Servicemen, Tel Aviv	86
The Israel National War Memorial Center, Jerusalem	90
Senior-citizens day center in Tel Aviv	98
Residential and mixed developments
Residential neighborhood in the kibbutz Maagan Michael	116
Hashomer apartments and shops, Tel Aviv	126
Student dormitories in Haifa	142
“Villas City” residential neighborhood, Rishon Lezion	148
Neighborhood center (shops, synagogue) in Jerusalem	152
Mobile markets in Ramat Gan, Maalot Tarshicha and Eilat	158

Master plans

West Yefet Hatsorfim development, Old Jaffa	166
High-density housing in Givatayim	174
Master plan for a residential neighborhood in Jerusalem	176
Ramat Amidar renewal project, Ramat Gan	180

Private houses

Shutz residence, Jerusalem	188
Three houses in Zichron Ya'akov	194
Toch residence 1, Jerusalem	210
Toch residence 2, Jerusalem	214

Visual chronology of projects and buildings 1973–2005	224
--	-----

Appendix

Biography	238
Writings by Nili Portugali	240
Writings on Nili Portugali	242
Credits	244
Acknowledgements	245