

Contents

Preface.....	VII
Contents	IX
Abbreviations.....	XI
Chapter 1: History and the Hebrew Bible.....	1
1.1 Background.....	1
1.2 The Recent History Debate.....	2
1.3 The Hebrew Bible	8
1.4 A Narrative Alternative	13
1.5 Narrative Truth.....	15
1.6 Summing Up.....	23
Chapter 2: Issues in the Narrative Truth Debate	25
2.1 The History Problem.....	25
2.2 “The New History”	26
2.3 “The Linguistic Turn”.....	28
2.4 Fact Versus Fiction	31
2.5 Fact, Fiction, and the Narrative Mode	33
2.6 Ancient History	35
2.7 Final Remarks.....	37
Chapter 3: “Bibliophobia” in Ancient Israelite Historiography	39
3.1 The Problem	39
3.2 Historical Truth in Ancient Sources.....	40
3.3 Some Examples from the Bible	43
3.4 Conclusion	45
Chapter 4: The Dating of the Israelite Tradition	46
4.1 Introductory Remarks	46
4.2 Deuteronomy	50
4.3 The Deuteronomistic History	51
4.4 The Common Theology of the Ancient Near East	54

4.5 A Hebrew Einheitskultur	63
4.6 Scribes, Sources and Diachronic Growth	65
4.7 The Persistence of the Tradition	67
4.8 Final Remarks.....	68
Chapter 5: Is the Hebrew Bible A Hellenistic Book?	70
5.1 Background.....	70
5.2 Lemche's First Argument	71
5.3 Lemche's Second Argument.....	72
5.4 Lemche's Third Argument.....	72
5.5 Lemche's Fourth Argument.....	80
5.6 Conclusion	88
Chapter 6: The Myth of the Empty Land.....	90
6.1 Preliminary Remarks.....	90
6.2 The Biblical Evidence.....	97
6.3 The Archaeology of Judah During the "Exilic" Period	111
6.4 The Evidence from Transjordan.....	117
6.5 The Neo-Babylonian Empire and Judah	121
6.6 Conclusions	131
Chapter 7: Judah in the Neo-Babylonian Period	135
7.1 Background.....	135
7.2 The Archaeology of Neo-Babylonian Judah	140
7.3 The Neo-Babylonian Empire.....	144
7.4 Judah in the Neo-Babylonian Economy	149
7.5 Conclusions	158
Sources and Acknowledgements	161
Bibliography	163
Author Index	201
Source Index	208
Subject Index	211