

Contents

Acknowledgements .....	7
Editors .....	9
1 Psychedelic musicians, Muslim dealers and domestic marijuana growers: an introduction Dirk J. Korf .....	11
2 Taking drugs to make music to take drugs to? Alfred Springer .....	21
3 Race, place, religion and drug supply Alastair Roy .....	37
4 Finding respondents in local marijuana markets Tim Surmont, Freya Vander Laenen &amp; Brice De Ruyver .....	54
5 Researching cannabis markets online: some lessons from the virtual field Gary R. Potter &amp; Caroline Chatwin .....	69
6 Using the internet for qualitative research on drug users and drug markets: the pros, the cons and the progress Ross Coomber .....	85
7 Developing a sound methodology to monitor the online availability of 'new drugs/legal highs' Ulrik Solberg, Roumen Sedefov &amp; Paul Griffiths .....	104
8 Finnish press narratives on drug addiction at different times during 1968-2006: role divisions and their inherent responsibility allocation Matilda Hellman .....	119
9 The glamour makes the difference. Discourses on cocaine, amphetamine, and ecstasy in Danish media Jakob Demant, Signe Ravn &amp; Anne Marie Lyager Kaae .....	136
List of contributors .....	153