

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	6
Introduction	9
1 The Seeds of Jewish Anti-fascism (1925–1932)	11
2 The Search for a German-Jewish Identity in the Youth Movement	21
3 The ‘Red Assimilation’	35
4 Stalinism in the Communist Party of Germany	39
5 Descent into Darkness (1933)	47
6 Persecution, Setbacks and the Beginning of Resistance (1933)	55
7 Acts of Rebellion (1934)	65
8 Arrests and Persecution (1935)	73
9 The Brussels Conference and the ‘Trojan Horse’ Policy (1935–1936)	85
10 Political and Intellectual Resistance (1936)	91
11 Communism as a Cure for Nazism (1937)	95
12 Resistance in Isolation and Kristallnacht (1938)	105
13 Renewed Activity, Attempts to Flee and the Nazi-Soviet Treaties (1939)	111
14 War, Forced Labour and Resistance (1939–1940)	119
15 Anti-fascism Takes Centre Stage and Trouble Brewing (1941)	135
16 Living on the Edge and ‘Soviet Paradise’ (1942)	149
17 Arson, Arrests and Reprisals (1942)	161
18 Interrogations, Executions and Survival (1942–1944)	175
Afterword: Legacy of the Baum Group	197
Notes	199
Bibliography	211
Index	219