Contents

I By way of an introduction ............................................................. 9
II Models of integrations ................................................................. 11
III Models of constitutionalisms and kinds of constitutions ................. 19
IV Basic Traits of present day European Union constitutionalism .......... 27
V The European Constitution according to Lisbon: Modern or post-modern? ........................................................................... 39
VI The European Constitution after the Crisis ................................... 43
VII The thorny Problem of Sovereignty in present day European Union Constitutionalism ........................................................................ 49
VIII Spanish constitutionalism inside European constitutionalism: From (nearly) blind ignorance to (nearly) blind submission? ................. 53
IX Common constitutional traditions and the risk of a Single Thought constitutionalism: Why choose only one constitutional model? ....... 61
X By way of a Conclusion: Time for profound Reflection .................... 71
References ......................................................................................... 83
Index ................................................................................................ 87