

Contents

List of Maps	xvii
List of Figures	xviii

PART I. The Question of Beginnings

Introduction	3
1. A Most Unusual Case I: The Appropriation of Antiquity by Medieval and Modern Europe	6
2. The Challenge of Freedom	9
3. A Most Unusual Case II: The Early Conditions of the Formation of Medieval and Early Modern Culture	16
4. The Constitution of Europe as a Continent	21
5. Greeks and Persians I: Freedom and Rule—Atossa's Dream	27
6. Europe and Asia in Antiquity	37
7. Antiquity as European Prehistory or Early History	44

PART II. The Rise of the World of Poleis

8. A Post-Mycenaean New Beginning: Origins of Greek Particularity	51
9. The Dawn of an Era: The Eighth Century BC	61
10. The Greeks and the Orient	68
11. Colonization	75
12. Homer and Hesiod	85
13. Gods and Priests	105
14. Crisis and Consolidation: The Seventh and Sixth Centuries BC	112
15. Polis Individualism and the Pan-Hellenic Context: The Agonistic Impulse	127
16. The Diversity of the Poleis : Sparta and Other Cities	139
17. The Wars	150
18. Polis Structure: Public Sphere and Institutions	161
19. Crisis: Aristocratic Rivalries, Social Conflicts, Tyranny	180
20. Lyric Poetry, the Symposium, and a Reorientation towards Virtue	196

21. The Beginnings of Political Thought: The 'Middling Class'	214
22. The Beginnings of Philosophy and Science	226
23. Athens's Path towards Isonomy and its Rise to Power	240
24. The Aegean World around 500 bc: Greeks and Persians II	266
25. Outlook	276
Epilogue	286
Glossary of Greek terms	290
Sources and Further Reading	291
Picture Acknowledgements	303
Index	304