1 Introduction ................................................................. 1
  1.1 Making the Case for Two-Person Relational Psychodynamic
      Psychotherapy: A Neurodevelopmentally Informed Treatment ... 4
  Introduction to Two-Person Relational Psychology .................. 5
  1.2 Context and Key Concepts in Two-Person
      Relational Psychology .............................................. 7
  1.3 Limitations of Two-Person Relational Psychology ................ 10
  1.4 How to Use This Book ............................................... 11
  References .............................................................. 12

2 Traditional One-Person Psychology .................................... 15
  2.1 Traditional One-Person Psychology ................................ 16
  2.2 Historical Background of Traditional One-Person
      Model of Child and Adolescent Psychoanalysis and Psychodynamic Psychotherapy ..................................... 17
  2.3 Freud and Classic Psychoanalytic Theories ....................... 17
      Sigmund Freud (1856–1939): Drive Theory ..................... 17
      First Child in Psychoanalysis: Little Hans .................... 19
      A Two-Person Relational Psychology View: Little Hans .... 20
  2.4 Freud’s Colleagues .................................................. 21
      William Stekel (1868–1940) ...................................... 21
      Carl Gustav Jung (1875–1961) .................................. 22
      Hermine von Hug-Hellmuth (1871–1924) ......................... 22
      Berta Bornstein (1899–1971) .................................. 23
  2.5 Ego Psychology ........................................................ 23
      Anna Freud (1895–1982) .......................................... 23
      Erik Erikson (1902–1994) Theory of Psychosocial Development ......................................................... 25
      Two-Person Relational Psychology View: Ego Psychology ... 25
  2.6 Object Relations Theory ............................................. 26
      Melanie Klein (1882–1960) ....................................... 26
      Donald Winnicott (1896–1971) .................................. 27
      Margaret Mahler (1897–1985) .................................. 28

Bibliografische Informationen
http://d-nb.info/103818228X
Personality Disorders in Children and Adolescents 29
Two-Person Relational Psychology View: Object Relations 31
2.7 Self-Psychology 31
Heinz Kohut (1913–1981) 31
Anna Ornstein (1927–) 31
Two-Person Relational Psychology View: Self-Psychology 33
2.8 Summary 33
References 34

3 Two-Person Relational Psychology for the Child and Adolescent Relational Psychotherapist 37
3.1 Two-Person Relational Psychology 38
Making the Case for a New Paradigm 38
3.2 Historical Background of Two-Person Relational Psychology in Adults 41
Freud’s Dissenting Colleagues 42
British Relational Theorists 44
American Relational Theorists 45
3.3 Historical Background of Two-Person Relational Psychology in Child and Adolescent Psychotherapy 46
American Two-Person Relational Child and Adolescent Psychotherapists 47
Other Two-Person Relational Child and Adolescent Psychotherapists 50
3.4 Two-Person Relational Psychodynamic Psychotherapy 50
Basic Principles of a Two-Person Relational Psychodynamic Psychotherapy Process 51
3.5 Two-Person Relational Experiences Are Contextual 53
Realities in the Environment That Trigger a Person’s Anxiety 53
Interactions with Another Person That Implicitly Trigger Anxiety 55
The Patient Unknowingly and Implicitly is Trying to Engage the Psychotherapist into a Relational Pattern that is Contextually Familiar 56
Uncertainty in Two-Person Relational Psychotherapy 57
Anxiety in the Two-Person Relational Psychotherapist 58
3.6 Critiques of the Two-Person Relational Model 59
3.7 Summary 60
References 60

4 Key Pioneers of Two-Person Relational Psychology 63
4.1 Developmental Psychology Researchers 63
René Spitz (1887–1974) 63
Robert Emde (1935–) 64
| 4.2 Developmental Psychology Synthesizers | 70 |
| 4.3 Developmental Theory and Theorist's | 71 |
| 4.4 Temperament Theorists | 74 |
| 4.5 Summary | 75 |
| References | 75 |

5 Key Concepts in Two-Person Relational Psychology

5.1 Meaning-Making Processes 81
5.2 Affective Attunement 83
5.3 Emotional Availability and Social Referencing 84
5.4 Temperament 86
5.5 Internal Working Models of Attachment (IWMA) 88

Attachment Patterns: Secure, Insecure-Ambivalent/Anxious, Insecure-Avoidant/Dismissive, and Insecure-Disorganized 89
Secure Attachment 89
Insecure-Ambivalent/Anxious Attachment 89
Insecure-Avoidant/Dismissive Attachment 90
Insecure-Disorganized Attachment 90

5.6 The Contextual Nature of Attachment 91
5.7 Fundamental Principals of Two-Person Relational Psychotherapy: Implicit Relational Knowing and Intersubjectivity 93
Implicit Relational Knowing 93
Intersubjectivity 94

5.8 Real Relationship, Present Moments, Now Moments, and Moments of Meeting 96
Real Relationship 96
Present Moment, Now Moments, and Moment of Meeting 96
Fuzzy Intentions and Sloppiness 100
Mentalization and Intersubjectivity 101
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>5.9 Corrective Emotional Experience</td>
<td>102</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.10 Key Concepts: Implications for Two-Person Relational Psychotherapy</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrew: A Securely Attached Child</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Implications for Two-Person Relational Psychotherapy</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bonnie: A Child with an Ambivalent/Anxious Attachment</td>
<td>104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Implications for Two-Person Relational Psychotherapy</td>
<td>104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Carlos: A Child with an Avoidant/Dismissive Attachment</td>
<td>105</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Implications for Two-Person Relational Psychotherapy</td>
<td>105</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Daniella: A Child Who Grows in a Disorganized Environment</td>
<td>107</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Implications for Two-Person Relational Psychotherapy</td>
<td>108</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.11 Summary</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>References</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

6 Deconstruction of Traditional One-Person Psychology Concepts

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6.1 Two-Person Relational Psychodynamic Psychotherapy: A Historical Context</td>
<td>117</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.2 Clinically Relevant Concepts from Traditional One-Person Psychology: A Two-Person Relational Perspective</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3 Traditional Unconscious in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology</td>
<td>119</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious in Traditional One-Person Psychology</td>
<td>119</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unconscious in Two-Person Relational Psychology</td>
<td>120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.4 Psychic Determinism in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Psychic Determinism in Traditional One-Person Psychology</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Psychic Determinism in Two-Person Relational Psychology</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.5 Drive Theory in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology</td>
<td>123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Drives in Traditional One-Person Psychology</td>
<td>123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Drives in Two-Person Relational Psychology</td>
<td>123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.6 Id in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Id in Traditional One-Person Psychology</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Id in Two-Person Relational Psychology</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.7 Ego in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ego in Traditional One-Person Psychology</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
6.17 Fantasy in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology ................. 144
Fantasy in Traditional One-Person Psychology ............... 144
Fantasy in Two-Person Relational Psychology ............... 144

6.18 Splitting in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology ................. 146
Splitting in Traditional One-Person Psychology .......... 146
Splitting in Two-Person Relational Psychology .......... 146

6.19 Identification with the Aggressor in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology ................. 147
Identification with the Aggressor in Traditional One-Person Psychology .......... 147
Identification with the Aggressor in Two-Person Relational Psychology .......... 147

6.20 Treatment Goals in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology ................. 148
Treatment Goals in Traditional One-Person Psychology .... 148
Treatment Goals in Two-Person Relational Psychology .... 149

6.21 Neutrality in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology ................. 150
Neutrality in Traditional One-Person Psychology .......... 150
Neutrality in Two-Person Relational Psychology .......... 152

6.22 Transference in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology ................. 153
Transference in Traditional One-Person Psychology .... 153
Transference in Two-Person Relational Psychology .... 154

6.23 Resistance in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology ................. 154
Resistance in Traditional One-Person Psychology .... 154
Resistance in Two-Person Relational Psychology .... 155

6.24 Interpretations in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology ................. 156
Interpretations in Traditional One-Person Psychology .... 156
Interpretations in Two-Person Relational Psychology .... 156

6.25 Dreams and Parapraxes in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology ................. 157
Dreams in Traditional One-Person Psychology .... 157
Parapraxes (Freudian Slips) in Traditional One-Person Psychology .......... 158
Dreams in Two-Person Relational Psychology .... 159
Parapraxes (Freudian Slips) in Two-Person Relational Psychology .......... 161

6.26 Countertransference in Traditional One-Person Psychology and Two-Person Relational Psychology ................. 161
Countertransference in Traditional One-Person Psychology .... 161
Countertransference in Two-Person Relational Psychology .... 162
8 Putting It All Together: The Four Pillars of the Contemporary Diagnostic Interview

8.1 Contrast of the Contemporary Diagnostic Interview (CDI) to a Traditional Diagnostic Interview

8.2 Overview of the Contemporary Diagnostic Interview (CDI)

8.3 The Contemporary Diagnostic Interview

The Clinician Provides an Atmosphere of Safety

Approaching the Patient and Parents or Caregivers with Vitality

The Alliance: Goodness of Fit for Mutual Curiosity

The Clinician Has an Open Frame of Mind

8.4 The Four Pillars of the Contemporary Diagnostic Interview

8.5 Temperament

Temperament Traits Derived from Thomas et al. (1970)

Temperament Styles

The Easy or Flexible Temperament Style

The Slow-to-Warm-Up Temperament Style

The Difficult or Feisty Temperament Style

The Mixed Temperament Style

8.6 Cognition

Cognitive Weakness and Learning Disorders

Assessing Cognition and Learning in a CDI

Assessing Visual–Spatial Abilities

8.7 Assessing Cognitive Flexibility (Sense of Agency, Theory of Mind)

Cognitive Flexibility in Adolescents

Brief Assessment of Cognitive Flexibility in Adolescents

Cognitive Flexibility in Preschool and Elementary School Age Youth

Brief Assessment of Cognitive Flexibility in Preschool and Elementary School-Age Youth

8.8 Internal Working Models of Attachment (IWMA)

Secure Attachment

Ambivalent/Anxious Attachment

Avoidant/Dismissive Attachment

Disorganized Attachment

Emotional Availability and Time-Outs
8.9 Putting It All Together: The Four Pillars of a Contemporary Diagnostic Interview

Beginning the Interview ........................................... 234
Attending to the External Attributes of the Patient and Parents or Caregivers ........................................... 236
Other Approaches .................................................... 240

8.10 Diagnostic Formulation and Treatment Plan.

Diagnostic Formulation ........................................... 241
Disclosure by the Child and Adolescent Psychiatrist or Clinician ........................................... 242

8.11 Treatment Planning ........................................... 243

Psychotherapies ...................................................... 243
Two-Person Relational Psychodynamic Psychotherapy ........................................... 243
Cognitive and Behavioral Therapies ........................................... 244
Criteria for Psychotherapies ........................................... 244
Formal Cognitive Testing ........................................... 245
Criteria for Formal Cognitive Testing ........................................... 245
Pharmacological Interventions ........................................... 245
Criteria for Pharmacological Interventions ........................................... 246

References ............................................................ 246

9 Setting the Frame .................................................... 249

9.1 What to Expect from the Psychotherapist ........................................... 250
9.2 “Setting the Frame”: The Contemporary Diagnostic Interview (CDI) ........................................... 250
9.3 “Setting the Frame” in Two-Person Relational Psychotherapy ........................................... 251

Consent to Treat ...................................................... 251
Goals of Treatment ...................................................... 252
Working with Parents ...................................................... 252
Time ................................................................. 253
Fees for Service ......................................................... 254
Third-Party Payers ....................................................... 255
The Office ............................................................. 256
The Waiting Room ....................................................... 257
Confidentiality (HIPAA) .............................................. 257
Communication ......................................................... 257
Office Rules .......................................................... 258
Consent for Video Recording ........................................... 259
Use of Electronic Devices ............................................. 259
Telepsychiatry ........................................................ 260
Home and School Visits ............................................. 260
Use of Medication ...................................................... 260
Medical Records ....................................................... 261
Special Situations ...................................................... 261
Families as Ambassadors for Two-Person Relational Psychotherapy ........................................... 262
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>14.2 Becoming a Supervisor</td>
<td>334</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supervision: From a Traditional One-Person to a Relational Two-Person Model</td>
<td>335</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supervision in a Traditional One-Person Model</td>
<td>335</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Critiques of the Traditional One-Person Approach to Supervision</td>
<td>335</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14.3 The Two-Person Relational Model and Its Relevance to Supervision</td>
<td>336</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14.4 The Two-Person Relational Supervisor</td>
<td>338</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Goals for the Relational Supervisor</td>
<td>338</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Limitations to a Two-Person Relational Supervisory Approach</td>
<td>339</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14.5 Case Conceptualization in Two-Person Relational Supervision</td>
<td>339</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14.6 The Supervisee in Two-Person Relational Supervision</td>
<td>342</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Using Intersubjectivity in Two-Person Relational Supervision</td>
<td>343</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lying in Supervision: A Two-Person Relational Approach</td>
<td>346</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spontaneity in Supervision</td>
<td>346</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14.7 The Use of Video Recordings in Supervision</td>
<td>348</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14.8 Concluding Thoughts on Two-Person Relational Psychotherapy Supervision</td>
<td>350</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>References</td>
<td>351</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Appendix</td>
<td>353</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Index</td>
<td>367</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>