3.3 Features of the relative clause — 93
3.3.1 Finiteness of the relative clause — 93
3.3.2 Transitivity of the relative clause — 102
3.3.3 Relativized (internal) grammatical role — 104
3.3.4 Cross-corpus comparison — 106
3.4 Features of the main clause — 113
3.4.1 Transitivity of the main clause — 113
3.4.2 External role and type of embedding — 117
3.4.3 Interlude: Some words on working memory, connectionism, constraint-satisfaction, and analogy — 118
3.4.4 Center versus right embedding — 126
3.4.5 Grammatical role of modified MC element — 127
3.5 Cross-clausal features — 130
3.5.1 Cross-clausal features: Transitivity configurations — 131
3.5.2 Cross-clausal features: Syntactic parallelism — 133
3.5.3 Cross-clausal features: Thematic parallelism — 136
3.5.4 Head versus RC-subject: Interferences — 140

4 Expanding horizons: RCC in ambient configuration space — 151
4.1 Non-finite RCCs (bivariate prelude) — 151
4.2 A configural perspective on non-finite RCCs — 155
4.2.1 Association rule mining: $k$-optimal patterns analysis — 155
4.2.1.1 Method and Results: Association rule mining — 159
4.2.1.2 Discussion: Association rule mining — 161
4.2.2 Configural frequency analysis — 163
4.2.2.1 Methods and Results: Configural frequency analysis — 165
4.2.2.2 Discussion: Configural frequency analysis — 166
4.2.3 Identifying exemplar clusters: RCC-similarity in configural space — 167
4.2.3.1 Relating patterns by similarity — 168
4.2.3.2 Method and results: Clustering non-finite RCCs — 169
4.3 Finite RCC — 173
4.3.1 Finite subject RCCs — 173
4.3.1.1 Association rule mining: Finite subject RCCs — 174
4.3.1.2 CFA: Finite subject RCCs — 175
4.3.1.3 Interlude: Variability in typical patterning: Gains and pains of hCFA — 179
4.3.1.4 Results: Finite subject RCC across modalities — 184
4.3.2 Finite non-subject RCCs — 187
4.3.2.1 ARM: Finite non-subject RCCs — 189
4.3.2.2 (h)CFA: Finite non-subject RCCs —— 191
