Table of contents

v Preface and acknowledgements

Chiara Gianollo, Agnes Jäger and Doris Penka

1 Language change at the syntax-semantics interface. Perspectives and challenges — 1

Elly van Gelderen

2 Semantic and formal features: Feature economy in language change — 33

Simon Kasper

3 Linking syntax and semantics of adnominal possession in the history of German — 57

Remus Gergel

4 Most historically — 101

Paola Crisma

5 The “indefinite article” from cardinal to operator to expletive — 125

Nikolaos Lavidas

6 The Greek Septuagint and language change at the syntax-semantics interface: from null to “pleonastic” object pronouns — 153

Magnus Breder Birkenes and Florian Sommer

7 The agreement of collective nouns in the history of Ancient Greek and German — 183

Antje Casaretto and Carolin Schneider

8 Vedic local particles at the syntax-semantics interface — 223

Cleo Condoravdi and Ashwini Deo

9 Aspect shifts in Indo-Aryan and trajectories of semantic change — 261

Anne Breitbarth

10 The development of conditional should in English — 293

Katerina Chatzopoulou

11 The Greek Jespersen’s cycle: Renewal, stability and structural microelevation — 323

Subject index — 355