CONTENTS

CHAPTER 1. INTRODUCTION ............................................................................................................. 1
1.1. PRIVATISATION PROCESSES IN LATIN AMERICA AND THE WORLD ............................................. 1
1.2. REFLECTIONS ON THE TERM PRIVATISATION ............................................................................. 5
1.3. PRIVATISATION OF INFRASTRUCTURE SERVICES IN LATIN AMERICA ...................................... 6
1.4. PRIVATISATION OF ELECTRICITY SERVICES IN LATIN AMERICA .................................................. 8
1.5. RESEARCH AIMS AND OBJECTIVES ......................................................................................... 11
1.6. STRUCTURE ............................................................................................................................... 12

CHAPTER 2. THEORETICAL APPROACHES TO, AND EMPIRICAL STUDIES ON, PRIVATISATION...15
2.1. THE ECONOMIC RATIONALE FOR PRIVATISATION........................................................................ 15
   2.1.1. Agency Theory / Property Rights Theory ........................................................................... 16
   2.1.2. Public Choice Theory ...................................................................................................... 17
   2.1.3. The Austrian School ...................................................................................................... 19
2.2. EMPIRICAL APPROACHES TO PRIVATISATION .......................................................................... 21
   2.2.1. Research on the Economic Impact of Privatisation ............................................................. 21
   2.2.2. Research on the Impact of Privatisation on Employees ....................................................... 24
2.3. FURTHER THEORETICAL APPROACHES TO PRIVATISATION AND NEOUBERAL REFORMS .......... 37
   2.3.1. Historical Institutionalism and Its Application to Neoliberal Reforms in Latin America .......... 38
   2.3.2. Actor-Centred Approaches to Latin American Privatisation Processes ............................... 40
   2.3.3. An Ideational Institutionalist Approach to Neoliberal Reforms in Britain ......................... 41
   2.3.4. Industrial Relations, the Sociology of Work and their Application to Neoliberal Reforms in Latin America ................................................................................................................................. 44
2.4. A COMPARATIVE INSTITUTIONAL APPROACH TO PRIVATISATION IN LATIN AMERICA ........... 46
2.5. CONTRIBUTIONS TO KNOWLEDGE .......................................................................................... 51

CHAPTER 3. METHODOLOGY AND METHODS .............................................................................. 52
3.1. METHODOLOGICAL APPROACH TO PRIVATISATION IN ARGENTINA AND BRAZIL ................. 52
3.2. COMPARATIVE METHOD .......................................................................................................... 57
   3.2.1. Case Study Selection ......................................................................................................... 57
3.3. TIMEFRAME ............................................................................................................................. 59
3.4. RESEARCH CHRONOLOGY ..................................................................................................... 60
3.5. DATA .......................................................................................................................................... 60
   3.5.1. Secondary Data .................................................................................................................. 60
   3.5.2. Primary Data ...................................................................................................................... 61

CHAPTER 4. PRIVATISATION PROCESSES IN ARGENTINA AND BRAZIL ........................................... 64
4.1. PRIVATISATION PROCESSES IN LATIN AMERICA ....................................................................... 64
   4.1.1. Reasons for Privatisation in Latin America ........................................................................ 67
4.2. THE ARGENTINE PRIVATISATION PROCESS OF THE 1990s ....................................................... 69
   4.2.1. The Historical, Political, Economic, and Ideational Context of Privatisation in Argentina .... 69
   4.2.2. Union Responses and Resistance to Privatisation in Argentina during the 1990s .......... 80
   4.2.3. The Privatisation of Infrastructure Services in Argentina .................................................. 83
   4.2.4. Characteristics of the Argentine Electricity Sector ............................................................. 87
   4.2.5. The Argentine Electricity Sector Privatisation Process ....................................................... 90
   4.2.6. Restructuring of Privatised Infrastructure Companies and Electricity Sector Reform .......... 95
   4.2.7. Privatisation Methods, Prices, and Forms of Payment in Electricity Distribution ............... 98
   4.2.8. Corruption and Illegal Processes in the Context of Argentine Privatisation ....................... 102
   4.2.9. Ownership Structures of Argentine Electricity Distribution Companies .......................... 103
4.3. THE BRAZILIAN PRIVATISATION PROCESS OF THE 1990s ....................................................... 108
   4.3.1. The Historical, Political, Economic, and Ideational Contexts of Privatisation in Brazil ..... 108
CHAPTER 5. REGULATORY CONTEXTS IN ARGENTINA AND BRAZIL—FROM AN ENTREPRENEURIAL TO A REGULATORY STATE

5.1 REGULATORY CHANGES IN THE ELECTRICITY SECTOR
5.2. THE REGULATORY CONTEXT OF PRIVATISATION IN ARGENTINA
5.2.1. Legislation which Enabled the Implementation of Privatisation Policies in Argentina
5.2.2. The Adoption of a New Regulatory Framework in the Argentine Electricity Sector
5.2.2.1. The Argentine Regulatory Agency, Ente Nacional Regulador de la Electricidad (ENRE)
5.2.3. Labour Regulation in Argentina
5.3. REGULATORY CONTEXTS IN BRAZIL
5.3.1. Legislation which Enabled the Implementation of Privatisation Policies in Brazil
5.3.2. The Adoption of a New Regulatory Framework in the Brazilian Electricity Sector
5.3.2.1. The Brazilian Regulatory Agency, Agência Nacional de Energia Elétrica (ANEEL)
5.3.3. Labour Regulation in Brazil
5.4. INTERIM CONCLUSIONS

CHAPTER 6. IMPACT OF PRIVATISATION ON ELECTRICITY SECTOR EMPLOYEES IN ARGENTINA AND BRAZIL

6.1. IMPACT OF PRIVATISATION ON EMPLOYEES IN ARGENTINA
6.1.1. Employment Levels in the Argentine Infrastructure Sector
6.1.1.1. "Voluntary" Resignation
6.1.2. Employment Levels in the Argentine Electricity Sector
6.1.3. Employment Levels at Segba
6.1.4. New Working Arrangements for the Argentine Electricity Sector
6.1.4.1. Employee Stock Ownership Plan
6.1.5. Union Membership and Collective Bargaining in the Argentine Electricity Sector
6.2. IMPACT OF PRIVATISATION ON ELECTRICITY SECTOR EMPLOYEES IN BRAZIL
6.2.1. Employment Levels in the Brazilian Infrastructure Sector
6.2.2. Employment Levels in the Brazilian Electricity Sector
6.2.3. Employment Levels at Light
6.2.3.1. Outsourcing
6.2.4. New Working Arrangements for the Brazilian Electricity Sector
6.2.4.1. Work-Related Accidents
6.2.5. Union Membership and Collective Bargaining in the Brazilian Electricity Sector
6.3. INTERIM CONCLUSIONS

CHAPTER 7. CONCLUSIONS
7.1. THEORETICAL AND METHODOLOGICAL CONSIDERATIONS
7.2. PRIVATISATION PROCESS, REGULATORY CONTEXT, AND EMPLOYEE IMPACT
7.2.1. Similarities in Privatisation Process and Regulatory Context
7.2.2. Differences in Privatisation Process and Regulatory Context
7.2.3. The Impact of Privatisation on Electricity Sector Employees in Argentina and Brazil
7.2.3.1. Direct Impact of Privatisation on Electricity Sector Employees
7.2.3.2. Privatisation Process, Regulatory Context, and Employee Impact
7.2.3.3. Indirect Impact of Privatisation
7.2.4. Final Remarks