Table of Contents

Preface

Introduction

Chapter 1: The 'Ekkλησία in the Greco-Roman Political World

1.1 The ἐκκλησία in classical Athens

1.1.1 Introduction

1.1.2 The agenda and power of the ἐκκλησία

1.1.3 Types and places of the ἐκκλησία

1.1.4 The πόλις as citizens' participation in government

1.1.5 Freedom of speech: The problem of ἰδιωτά

1.1.6 Who should be citizens? The problem of βάπτισμον

1.1.7 The legacy of political animals

1.2 The ἐκκλησία in the Hellenistic Period and the Early Empire

1.2.1 Was the ἐκκλησία merely rubber-stamping the βουλή's agenda?

1.2.2 The Roman understanding of the Greek δῆμος

1.2.3 Greek reception of Roman rule

1.2.3.1 Polybius

1.2.3.2 Plutarch

1.2.3.3 Dio Chrysostom

1.2.4 The cultural milieu: The empire of honor

1.2.5 Was ἐκκλησία used as a title for voluntary associations?

Chapter 2: The 'Ekkλησία in the LXX and Second-Temple Judaism

2.1 Introduction

http://d-nb.info/1051707323
Table of Contents

2.2 The ἕκκλησια in the Hebrew Scriptures and the LXX .................................. 64

2.3 The δῆμος of Israel in the Hellenistic and the Roman Period .................. 69
  2.3.1 The present state of the discussions ............................................. 69
  2.3.2 The Jewish “ancestral constitution” and theocracy .......................... 73
  2.3.3 The Jewish δῆμος in the Maccabean books .................................... 80
  2.3.4 The Jewish δῆμος under Roman rule ........................................... 82

2.4 The ἑκκλησια in the collective memory of Israel .................................... 84

2.5 The centrality of Jerusalem ................................................................. 91

2.6 Summary .............................................................................................. 97

Chapter 3: Paul’s Use of ἑκκλησια ............................................................... 98

3.1 The present state of discussions ............................................................ 98

3.2 The five typical contexts for Paul’s use of ἑκκλησια ............................ 103
  3.2.1 Greetings .................................................................................... 103
  3.2.2 Interrelationship between the local churches ................................. 112
  3.2.3 The Plenary assembly as opposed to the house group ................... 116
  3.2.4 Human abuse of the divine institution ἡ ἑκκλησια τοῦ θεοῦ ........... 117
  3.2.5 Titles of the officials of the church .............................................. 121
  3.2.6 Conclusion .................................................................................. 124

3.3 The problem of the house churches ....................................................... 124

3.4 Jerusalem and the problem of the universal church .............................. 133
  3.4.1 From ἑκκλησια to ἑκκλησιαι in Acts ............................................. 135
  3.4.2 The absence of the term ἑκκλησια in Romans ................................. 138

Chapter 4: The Emphasis of the City-Wide Church as Paul’s Prescription for the Corinthian Conflict ................................................... 151

4.1 Physical setting of the assembly ............................................................ 152
Table of Contents

4.2 Critical questions about the social nature of the conflict .......................... 157
  4.2.1 What was the nature of the meal? Who paid for it? ............................... 157
  4.2.2 What was the house owner's status and role in the Lord's Supper? ............ 161
  4.2.3 What happened after Paul left Corinth? ............................................... 164
  4.2.4 Who went hungry? The social contour of the conflict ............................ 166

4.3 The problem of house churches in the Corinthian context .......................... 169

4.4 Paul's prescription for the disorder at the Lord's Supper .......................... 171

4.5 A remaining problem – The status of the house churches .......................... 174

Chapter 5: Local Diversity among the Pauline Churches ................................. 178

  5.1 Social history of the Pauline churches and the Corinthian church .............. 178

  5.2 The social strata of the Pauline churches .............................................. 181
    5.2.1 The significance of Economic Scale 4 ............................................. 183
    5.2.2 The provider of the space for the plenary assembly ............................ 184
    5.2.3 Communal leadership and house churches ....................................... 186
    5.2.4 The use of data from Acts .......................................................... 187

  5.3 The social formation of the Thessalonian church .................................... 189
    5.3.1 A community without a patron ..................................................... 189
    5.3.2 The logistics of the community ................................................... 193
    5.3.3 The organization of the community .............................................. 197

  5.4 The social formation of Philippian Church ............................................ 202
    5.4.1 The organization of the community .............................................. 202
    5.4.2 The poor but well-funded Philippians ......................................... 205

  5.5 Were the Macedonian churches voluntary associations? ............................ 208

  5.6 Later development – the churches with and without common funds .............. 215

Conclusion ........................................................................................................ 218

Bibliography ..................................................................................................... 223
Table of Contents

Index of Ancient Sources ..............................................................241
Index of Modern Authors ..............................................................248
Index of Subjects ........................................................................252