Contents

Acknowledgements .................................................. 9

Introduction .......................................................... 11

1. Literary Spinoffs: An Intertextual Genre ..................... 30
   1.1. Spinoff Aesthetics: Explicitness and Intensity of the Intertextual Relation ........ 32
   1.2 Oscillation and Good Continuation ............................... 36
   1.3 0–2: Text and Context/Text and Matrixes .................. 41
   1.4 The “Dialogic” Involvement with the Pre-Text: Dark Areas and In-/Compatibility of Fictional Worlds ...... 44
   1.5 Spinoffs as Communicative Genre: Dialogue and Dialogics . 48
   1.6 Intertextual Contexts ........................................... 50

2. Re-Visioning Intertextuality: Models and Debates .......... 61
   2.1 Predecessors: Poststructuralist vs. Descriptive Intertextuality 62
   2.2 Alternative Positions .......................................... 73
   2.3 A Working Model of Intertextuality in Cultural and Literary Analysis .................. 78
3. Cultural Work and the Functions of Genre .......................... 97
  3.1 Cultural Work .............................................. 99
  3.2 Exclusion and Inclusion: Spinoffs and/as Participatory Culture .................. 102
  3.3 The Literary Marketplace and Cultural Capital .......................... 107
  3.4 Copyrights and Copywrongs: Who "Owns" Culture? .................. 111
  3.5 Revisiting the Nineteenth Century ............................ 116

  Ow(n)ing Melville ........................................... 125

  4.1 Appropriating Melville ...................................... 131
      Swimming through Libraries, Weaving the Web: Levels and Methods of Intertextual Engagement in Ahab's Wife .................. 134
      Whose Melville? ............................................ 142

  4.2 The World as Ship: Mad Hunts, Male Myths .................... 150
      Melville's Male Microcosm ................................ 150
      Moby-Dick as Quest Narrative: Ahab's Quest .............. 156
      Male Quests Reconsidered .................................. 164
      Re-Considering the World of Male Bonding ................. 175

  4.3 Re-Writing the Quest: From Soaring Spirit to Social Vision .... 180
      Invading the World of the Ship, Questioning Separate Spheres .... 182
      Diving and Soaring ......................................... 187
      Una's (In-)Sights: Freedom and Community ................... 196
      Reading Melville through Discourses of Slavery .............. 203
      (Mis-)Guided Missions—Commenting on National Quests ........ 208

  4.4 The Quill and the Quilt: Art as Social Vision ................. 211
      The Quilt and the Quill: Sewing and Writing as Means of Coping ... 212
      The Life of Art: Creating a Community of Texts ............. 222
5. From Playing Pilgrim to Waging War: March .......... 229

   The Return of the Father .................................. 229

5.1 Little Women: Alcott’s Classic? .................. 233

   “Moral Pap for the Young” vs. Female Myth .......... 233
   Little Women’s Intertexts .......................... 237

5.2 Little Women and Colossal Fathers: March’s Pre-Texts ... 245

   Re-Writing Little Women ............................... 245
   Literary Intertexts .................................... 248
   History and Biography as Intertexts ................. 253

5.3 March’s Civil Wars: Gender, Soul-Wrestling, Slavery, and Innocence ............................................. 259

   The Missing Father as Husband: Sex Wars ............ 261
   The Father as Pilgrim: A Transcendentalist’s Civil “Wars”.
   Re-Viewing the National Founding Story, Re-Imagining the Civil War ... 278
   The End of Innocence: March’s National Bequests ........ 288
   A Trunk Full of Books .................................. 300

6. American Pastorals? Re-Reading

   Adventures of Huckleberry Finn ..................... 304

6.1 Twain’s Fame: The Hypercanonization of Mark Twain
   and Huckleberry Finn .................................. 304

6.2 Reading Huckleberry Finn: Hermeneutic Agendas ...... 311

   Hannibal Nostalgia: Imagined Childhoods and Pasts .... 314
   The Mississippi as Alternative Space: Freedom and Civilization ... 322
   Race in Huckleberry Finn: Voice, Plot, and Characterization ... 328

6.3 My Jim: Huckleberry Finn as Neo-Slave Narrative .... 338

   In the Margins of Twain’s World: Turning Huckleberry Finn into a
   Narrative of Slavery .................................. 340
   Re-Dressing Jim: From Minstrel Mask to White Man’s Hat ... 359
   Mississippi Myths ..................................... 367
   Connections ............................................. 372
6.4 The Bequests of the Fathers: Fatherhood, Inheritances, and the Role of the Past in Finn .......................... 385

Rewriting Pap Finn: Intertextual Strategies in Finn ......................... 389
Fatherly Bequests and River Nightmares: Finn and the Nature/Civilization Divide ........................................... 394
Huck's Blackness ........................................................................ 405
Whence, America? National Origins and Narrative Voice .................. 410
The Writings on the Whitewashed Wall ......................................... 415
In Search of Narrative Alternatives ............................................. 421

Conclusion: Story-Telling, Libraries, Trunks of Books, and the Writing on the Whitewashed Wall ......................... 429

Bibliography ................................................................................. 452

List of Illustrations ..................................................................... 492

Index ......................................................................................... 494