Contents

Notes on contributors ................................................................................................................................. 9

Introduction: Rethinking and revising post-transitional South Africa and Czech Republic ................................. 11
   Hana Horáková and Stephanie Rudwick

The Czech Republic and South Africa as emerging donors ............................................................................. 39
   Mvuselelo Ngcoya

Regionalism as a response to global economic challenges: Case studies of South Africa and the Czech Republic .............................................................................................................. 59
   Vilém Řehák

New nationalist discourses and practices: The South African and Czech experience ....................................... 83
   Hana Horáková

Czech racism towards Roma and colonised social services ........................................................................... 117
   Hana Synková

Ethno-linguistic dynamics in the two young democracies: A comparison of language stigmas ......................... 143
   Stephanie Rudwick

Facing the past: Truth, accountability and victims’ compensation in South Africa and the Czech Republic .......................................................... 161
   Kateřina Werkman

Deceived men, kissing women and women with ugly noses: The spectacle of gender transformation politics in South Africa ....................................................... 185
   Thabo Msibi

The position of women in post-communist Czech Republic ......................................................................... 205
   Petra Ahari

HIV/AIDS in South Africa and beyond: Pulling the epidemic ‘out of the box’ ................................................ 221
   Júlia Lampášová