List of Abbreviations .......................................................... Vi
1 Introduction ................................................................. 1
  1.1 Nanomaterial and Nanoparticles ........ .......................... 2
  1.2 Pathways of Nanoparticle Entry into the Body ................. 4
  1.3 The Skin in the Focus of this Work .................................. 4
      1.3.1 Skin Structure and Physiology .................................. 5
      1.3.2 Barrier Function of the Skin .................................... 6
      1.3.3 Testing of Nanoparticles in \textit{in vivo} Skin Models .......... 7
      1.3.4 Pathways of Skin Penetration ................................. 7
  1.4 Penetration of Inorganic Nanoparticles Through Intact Skin .... 8
  1.5 Mechanical Skin Barrier Disruptions .............................. 11
      1.5.1 Models of Mechanical Skin Barrier Disruption .............. 11
      1.5.2 Literature Review on the Penetration of Inorganic Nanoparticles Through a Mechanically Disrupted Skin Barrier .......... 13
  1.6 Barrier Disruptions in Inflammatory Skin Diseases ............. 14
      1.6.1 General Aspects .................................................. 14
      1.6.2 Allergic Contact Dermatitis in Humans .................... 14
      1.6.3 Animal Models of Allergic Contact Dermatitis .............. 15
      1.6.4 Atopic Dermatitis in Humans .................................. 15
      1.6.5 Animal Models of Atopic Dermatitis .......................... 16
      1.6.6 Literature Review on the Performance of Inorganic Nanoparticles in Inflammatory Skin Diseases .......................... 17
  1.7 Silica Nanoparticles .................................................. 17
      1.7.1 Silica Nanoparticles and their Biomedical Applications .... 17
      1.7.2 Biological Behavior of Silica Nanoparticles \textit{in vitro} ........ 19
      1.7.3 Biological Behavior of Silica Nanoparticles \textit{in vivo} ........... 21
      1.7.4 Penetration of Silica Nanoparticles Through Intact Skin .... 22