CONTENTS

Chapter 1
In which an adventure begins without me realizing it.
At first I am very angry and leave. Eventually I come across something surprising and incredibly small  1

Chapter 2
In which I get to know a captain. A ship hitchhikes,
I discover astounding things below the deck, and finally I hear a fairy tale that’s not a fairy tale at all  24

Chapter 3
In which a continent is discovered for the second time.
A marzipan torte is covered in footprints, and I’m the only one who sees the man in the shadows  50

Chapter 4
In which we don’t get to know Henk Olafsen personally.
We make a mistake, and in the dark it’s a good thing I’m so strong  77

Chapter 5
In which we survive a small natural disaster.
The Clawshead is no place to hang around at night.
Then we happen upon the golden trees  98

Chapter 6
In which we have a garden party on a table. We receive several enigmatic messages, and I lose my temper again. In the end, I make quite a bewildering discovery  112
Chapter 7
In which I find someone, but it means that others disappear. Later, we get to know a seagull surprisingly well, and finally a piece of crumble cake saves our lives. But it doesn't help at all 136

Chapter 8
In which we aren't mice. Someone makes scrambled eggs, and the Ancient One speaks to us. Then there is an autumn bouquet and a seaquake 160

Chapter 9
In which I land on top of someone. I find even more bits of plastic and am puzzled by them. Olafsen makes a decision, and this time it's Sven who loses his temper 182

Chapter 10
In which we find old metal, to our astonishment. There are no sea monsters, and Olafsen catches a strange fish. In the end, I disappear again 206

Chapter 11
In which something remarkable comes to light. An inflatable, yellow, rubber monster appears, and we unzip something 228

Chapter 12
In which Olafsen lowers his pipe and looks at me 248

Afterword
Which would be Chapter 13 if it weren't so short, and in which the yellow, rubber monster is inflated for what might not be the last time 273
