Contents

Foreword ................................................................................................................................. 9
  Susanne Weigelin-Schwiedrzik

Introduction .............................................................................................................................. 11
  Astrid Lipinsky

Part I: Migration within Taiwan

Establishing a Tradition of Migrant Brides:
The Aborigines ......................................................................................................................... 23
  Michael Rudolph

The Challenge of Environmental Changes for Indigenous Peoples ....................... 49
  Rosa Enn

Part II: Immigrants and the Taiwanese State

Making the National Community Congruent with the State:
The Role of Immigration Legislation in the Nation-building of Taiwan .......... 75
  Isabelle Cheng

The Differentiated Civil, Social, and Political Rights of Female Mainland Spouses in Taiwan .................................................................................. 105
  Wan-Ying Yang

Part III: Besides a Bride: Migrant Workers and Students

The Impact of Globalization on Taiwan’s Education Policy:
The International Student ........................................................................................................ 129
  Julie Lin

Acceptance of Foreign Workers:
A Comparative Study of Austria and Taiwan ................................................................. 153
  Chyong-Fang Ko
Part IV: Integration of Immigrants in Taiwan

Between Official and Concealed:
Reconsidering the Status of Mainland Spouses in Contemporary Taiwan .... 171
  Lara Momesso

“Saigon Kid”: Taiwanese Writers on the ‘New Taiwanese’
and their Children .............................................................. 195
  Astrid Lipinsky

Contributors ........................................................................ 223