Contents

List of Figures vii
Foreword viii
John Paul Lederach
Acknowledgement xiii

1 Introduction 1
1.1 Author's perspective 1
1.2 Research interest 5
1.3 Method and structure 14
1.4 State of the art 19

2 Humanistic Psychology, the Foundation of Elicitive Conflict Transformation 25

3 Breath-oriented Approaches to Elicitive Conflict Transformation 45
3.1 Shamanic origins 46
3.2 Holotropic breathwork 54
3.3 Vipassana and quantum light breath 63

4 Voice-oriented Approaches to Elicitive Conflict Transformation 74
4.1 Nonviolent communication 76
4.2 Theme-centered Interaction 85
4.3 The psychology of interpersonal communication 91
4.4 Prelinguistic methods 103

5 Movement-oriented Approaches to Elicitive Conflict Transformation 112
5.1 Butō 114
5.2 Budō–aikidō 118
5.3 Political constellations 125
5.4 Transformative theater work 138

6 On the Transrational Turn in International Peace Work 152
6.1 The transrational turn in diplomacy 158
6.2 The transrational turn in military peace operations 166
6.3 The transrational turn in development policies 175
6.4 The transrational turn in political economy 187
Contents

7 On the Transrational Turn in Peace Research: Themes, Levels, and Layers of Elicitive Conflict Transformation 200
  7.1 The episode: the dance of the personae 207
  7.2 Elicitive healing: sexuality and family 209
  7.3 Elicitive trust: belonging and community 213
  7.4 Elicitive consciousness: bonding and society 215
  7.5 Elicitive observing: spirituality and policity 219
  7.6 Elicitive witnessing: awareness and globality 223
  7.7 The epicenter 224

Conclusions of the Second Volume 225

Notes 229

Bibliography 250

Index 265