Contents

1. Introduction: The ICC and the politics of international criminal justice
   1

2. The politics of international criminal justice in the ICC’s early work (2002-2005)
   4
   2.1 Politics of state support: Power struggles and self-referrals
   4
   2.2 Prosecutorial politics: Treading softly
   6
   2.3 Political impact in the situation countries: Deterrence or “peace versus justice”? 7
   2.4 Political impact on military crisis management: The ICC as a fig leaf?
   8

   10
   3.1 Politics of state support: Winning great power backing, losing Africa
   12
   3.2 Prosecutorial politics: Timid steps toward independence
   16
   3.3 Political impact in the situation countries: Doubting deterrence
   19
   3.4 Political impact on military crisis management: From fig leaf to slippery slope
   22

4. Conclusion and policy recommendations
   24

Annex
   29

Abbreviations
   37

Bibliography
   31