Table of Contents

Acknowledgments ............................................................................................................ 9

New Territories: Exploring the Post-apartheid Stage ............................................. 11
Greg Homann and Marc Maufort

Ubizo – Voices of elok’shini: Listening Afresh to Theatre Voices from Cape Town’s Townships ................................................................. 23
Gay Morris

Eastern Cape Voices in Post-apartheid Theatre ..................................................... 57
Veronica Baxter

“After Titus:” Towards a Survey of Shakespeare on the Post-apartheid Stage ................................................................. 75
Chris Thurman

Claiming Western Texts for Contemporary South African Theatre: Issues of Relevance and the Dead-end Pursuit of National Identity .................................................................................. 105
Greg Homann

SUN: Composition, Continuum, Choreopoem. A Theatre-making Case Study in Post-apartheid South Africa .......................................................................................................................... 129
Mwenya B. Kabwe

“The Dangerous Side of Writing:” The Post-apartheid Memory Plays of Athol Fugard .......................................................................................................................... 147
Brian Crow

Zakes Mda: The Satirist ............................................................................................. 167
Patrick. Ebewo

The (New) Playwrights of the (New) Revolution .............................................. 183
Zingi Mkefa

Re-imagining Space and Identity: A New Generation of Post-apartheid Afrikaans Playwrights ................................................................. 205
Petrus du Preez
Staging Miss Julie: Re-Visioning Strindberg
Marcia Blumberg

Negotiating the Post-apartheid Condition: Violence, Trauma and the Realist Aesthetic in Contemporary South African Drama
Marc Maufort

Reanimating the Ordinary: Walking, Talking and Performing in Johannesburg and Beyond
Loren Kruger

Spectacles of Participation: Performing amaXhosa Authenticity at the National Arts Festival of South Africa
Anton Krueger and Zoë Reeve

Laws of Recall: Body, Memory and Site-Specific Performance in Contemporary South Africa
Jay Pather

“My Exit Interview.” Malcolm Purkey Talks to Geoffrey Davis

“Moments of Discovery.” An Interview with James Ngcobo

“Truth is in the detail.” Craig Higginson Talks to Anne Fuchs and Geoffrey Davis

“Don’t start him on the funding question, ever.” Mark Fleishman and Jay Pather Talking to Geoffrey Davis and Anne Fuchs

Index

Notes on Contributors