Contents

Foreword 9
  Michael Zimmermann

Acknowledgements 11

Introduction 13
  Outline 13
  Contributions of this study 16

Part I
Is the Mahāparinirvāṇa-mahāsūtra “Our Earliest” Tathāgatagarbha Text?
  Introduction 19
  The portion of MPNMS under consideration (“MPNMS-tg”) 20

1 MPNMS-tg as a “Tathāgatagarbha Text” 23
  1.1 MPNMS-tg as a veritable “tathāgatagarbha text” 23
  1.2 The Tathāgatagarbha-sūtra as a “tathāgatagarbha text” 32

2 The Date of MPNMS-tg, Relative to Other Tathāgatagarbha Texts 35
  2.1 Does MPNMS-tg refer to (our present) TGS by title? 35
    2.1.1 References to a/the (this?) Tathāgatagarbha-sūtra within MPNMS-tg 37
    2.1.2 Reference to other titles and texts in MPNMS 40
    2.1.3 MPNMS references to other Mahāyāna texts by title 50
    2.1.4 Relations to other texts without mention of their title 53
  2.2 Similarity of one simile between MPNMS-tg and TGS 56
  2.3 Summary 57
3 Evidence for the Absolute Dates of MPNMS-tg and Other Tathāgatagarbha Scriptures
3.1 Evidence for the absolute date of MPNMS-tg
3.2 Independent evidence for the absolute dates of TGS
3.3 Summary
3.4 Takasaki’s chronology: The Anūnatvāpūrṇatva-nirdeśa and Śrīmālādevisiṃhanāda-sūtra
3.5 Chronological relations between MPNMS-tg and other texts in the MPNMS group
3.6 Conclusions

Part II
The Mahāparinirvāṇa-mahāsūtra and the Origins of Tathāgatagarbha Doctrine
Introduction
Schmithausen’s criteria for a “scenario of origin” for Buddhist concepts

4 Tathāgatagarbha, the Problem of Maternity, and Positive Corollaries to Docetic Buddhology
4.1 Terms
4.2 Docetism as a corporeal issue
4.3 The extension of docetism beyond death and birth
4.4 Negatively-framed docetism about the Buddha’s conception, gestation and birth
4.5 “Material-miraculous” positive corollaries of docetism about the Buddha’s conception, gestation and birth
4.6 The material-miraculous, “docetic” womb
4.7 Dharmakāya and vajrakāya as positive corollaries of corporeal docetism
4.8 Tathāgatagarbha as a “soteriological-transcendent” positive corollary to docetism about the Buddha’s conception, gestation and birth
4.9 Docetism and the problem of the Buddha’s mother(s)
4.10 Docetic reinterpretations of other branches of kinship 154
4.11 Summary 155
5 Garbha and Dhatu 159
6 Conclusions 169
  6.1 Summary 169
  6.2 Directions for future research 171
Appendix 1 Terms related to “tathāgatagarbha” in MPNMS 175
Appendix 2 Chinese zang 藏 (esp. in DhKṣ) and “secret teachings” 193
Appendix 3 Further apparent historical detail in the MPNMS group prophecy complex 199
  1 *Sarvalokapriyadarśana 199
  2 A “*cakravartini” 202
  3 Trials and tribulations of the espousers of the MPNMS group 205
Appendix 4 “MPNMS-dhk” and “MPNMS-tg” 207
Appendix 5 “Kataphatic gnostic docetism” 211
Abbreviations 215
Bibliography 219
Index 247