

Table of Contents

Volume III: Enactive Trauma Therapy

Preface . . . . .	3
Ignorance, Fragility, and Control versus Realization . . . . .	4
Theory: A Navigational Instrument . . . . .	6
A Player and a Coach: Two Organism-Environment Systems Enacting a Common World . . . . .	7
The Trinity of Trauma and The Haunted Self . . . . .	9
The Trinity of Trauma: A Trilogy . . . . .	11
Clinicians and Therapists . . . . .	13
Gratitude . . . . .	13
Introduction: Volume III in Brief . . . . .	15
Theoretical Basis . . . . .	15
The Practice of Enactive Trauma Therapy . . . . .	19
Chapter 22: Consciousness in Trauma . . . . .	23
A Trinity of Prototypical Dissociative Subsystems of the Personality . . . . .	23
Consciousness: Cooperation, Coordination, Communication . . . . .	26
General, Personal, and Subjective (Phenomenal) Consciousness . . . . .	28
Totalitarian, Corporative, and Communicative Cooperation . . . . .	29
Interpersonal Traumatization as a Totalitarian Organization . . . . .	30
Dissociative Parts of the Personality in Trauma: Totalitarian and Corporative . . . . .	32
Enactive Trauma Clinicians: Corporative and Communicative . . . . .	34
Being Sentient and Being Conscious . . . . .	35
Phenomenal and Subjective . . . . .	37
Chapter 23: Enlightenment, Enlivenment, Enactivism . . . . .	39
Enlightenment . . . . .	40
Songs Beyond the Siren of Mechanics . . . . .	41
Songs Beyond the Siren of Matter . . . . .	42
Songs Beyond the Siren of Thought . . . . .	44
Adverse Life: Coincidental Suffering? . . . . .	44
Enlivenment and Enactivism . . . . .	45

Parts and Wholes . . . . .	49
Enactivism: A Viable One System Approach to Life . . . . .	54
Chapter 24: Embedment, Entanglement, and Conatus . . . . .	57
A Knotty Ontological Dialectic . . . . .	57
A Knotty Epistemic Dialectic . . . . .	59
The Ontological and Epistemic Relativity and Entanglement of Subjects and Objects . . . . .	60
Embedment and Subject-Object Relativity in Trauma . . . . .	60
Conatus or Will . . . . .	62
Summary . . . . .	66
Chapter 25: Desire, Joy, and Sadness . . . . .	67
Evaluation as Signification . . . . .	67
Signs and Sense Making . . . . .	69
Insignification . . . . .	70
Signification is Species-Dependent . . . . .	71
The Power of Action . . . . .	71
Actions, Passions, and Umwelt . . . . .	74
Passions and Substitute Actions . . . . .	75
Adverse, Traumatizing, and Traumatic Events . . . . .	77
Decomposition and (Re)Composition of the Personality in Trauma . . . . .	77
Reenactment of Traumatic Memories and Relationships: Seeking Joy, Remaining Stuck in Sadness, Suffocating in Hate . . . . .	79
Dissociative Intrusions . . . . .	82
Demoralization: Power of Action Lost . . . . .	83
Enactivism and Participatory Sense Making . . . . .	84
Chapter 26: Dissociative Parts of the Personality and Modes of Longing and Striving . . . . .	87
Dissociative Parts and Action Systems . . . . .	87
ANPs with ‘EP-like’ Features and EPs with ‘ANP-like’ Features . . . . .	90
Modes of Longing and Striving . . . . .	92
Dissociative Parts Include Various Modes of Longing and Striving . . . . .	97
Lack of Integration and Dissociation: Related but Different Concepts . . . . .	103
Chapter 27: Traumatized Individuals and Their Dissociative Parts: Autonomous Centers of Action and Passion . . . . .	107
Autonomous Systems . . . . .	107
Traumatized Individuals and Their Dissociative Parts: Autonomous Systems . . . . .	111
Autonomous Systems: Operationally Closed, Environmentally Open . . . . .	117
Traumatized Individuals and Dissociative Parts as Operationally Closed Systems . . . . .	117

---

Autonomous Systems: Minded . . . . .	118
Mind, Affectivity, and Perspectivalness in Trauma . . . . .	123
Conatus and Passions . . . . .	123
Conatus and Passion in Trauma . . . . .	125
A Recapitulation . . . . .	127
Chapter 28: Ego and Socius . . . . .	131
Ego as Socius . . . . .	131
Some Perspectival Features of Prenatal Development . . . . .	133
Ego and Socius in Prenatal and Postnatal Trauma . . . . .	135
Chapter 29: Conatus, Cognition, and the Body . . . . .	143
Conatus and Cognition in Trauma . . . . .	145
Mind, Brain, and Body . . . . .	146
Chapter 30: Participatory Sense-Making . . . . .	155
Entering the World of Psychology . . . . .	156
Paula . . . . .	157
The Province of Groningen . . . . .	159
Defrosting a Frozen Lady . . . . .	162
Making Meaning Together . . . . .	165
Epilogue . . . . .	179
Chapter 31: Attunement, Consensus Building, and Sensitive Leading by Utilization . . . . .	181
Pediatric Hypnotherapy as a Model of Any Form of Psychotherapy . . . . .	182
The Dance of Enactive Trauma Therapy . . . . .	187
From Flatland to Spaceland . . . . .	194
Loss of Control in Trauma and Dissociation . . . . .	201
Chapter 32: Enactive Assessment of Dissociation and Traumatizing Events .	205
Therapeutic Democracy and the Development of Positive Control . . . . .	206
Standard Assessment . . . . .	208
Stop Signals . . . . .	210
Ineke . . . . .	212
The First Session . . . . .	212
The Second Session . . . . .	214
The Path So Far . . . . .	251
Secrets . . . . .	252
Epilogue . . . . .	252
Chapter 33: Uncommon Enactive Assessment . . . . .	253

Martha . . . . .	253
Assessment . . . . .	279
A Therapeutic Plan of Action . . . . .	290
The Continued Treatment . . . . .	291
Epilogue . . . . .	295
Sonja . . . . .	295
Conclusion . . . . .	299
Chapter 34: How Water Beats Rocks and Other Metaphors . . . . .	301
How Water Beats Rocks . . . . .	302
Epilogue . . . . .	309
Paralinguistics . . . . .	310
Metaphor Construction and Preparation . . . . .	314
Sleeping Beauty: A Tale for Young Fragile EPs . . . . .	315
The Boxer . . . . .	316
The Jigsaw Puzzle . . . . .	317
The Long Journey, the First Step . . . . .	318
Chapter 35: The Meaning of Sirens . . . . .	319
WWW: From Symptom to Meaning – Who Does What and Why? . . . . .	320
Discussion . . . . .	341
A Brutal Confession, the Unveiling of a Final Secret, and the Right to Exist . . . . .	347
Chapter 36: Hand in Hand . . . . .	349
Agnes . . . . .	351
Physical Contact Between Patients and Clinicians . . . . .	365
Conclusion . . . . .	375
Chapter 37: Sympathy for The Devil . . . . .	377
Dissociative Amnesia and Dissociative Hypermnesia . . . . .	377
Meeting The Helper . . . . .	379
Meeting The Devil . . . . .	382
Completion of the Session . . . . .	395
The Next Session . . . . .	396
From Totalitarian to Communicative-Egalitarian Relationships . . . . .	397
Therapeutic Exposure from an Enactive Perspective . . . . .	400
Twenty Years Later: Sonja's Reactions to Watching The Devil . . . . .	404
Chapter 38: 222 Propositions Regarding Enactivism and Enactive Trauma Therapy . . . . .	407
Enactivism . . . . .	407
Mind and Matter . . . . .	407

---

Relativity of Subject and Object; Meaning Making . . . . .	407
Morality . . . . .	408
Organism-Environment Systems and Operationally Autonomous Systems . . . . .	408
Embrained, Embodied, Embedded . . . . .	409
Mental and Phenomenal Systems . . . . .	409
Needs and Desires . . . . .	409
Modes of Longing and Striving . . . . .	410
Integration: Synthesis, Personification, Presentification, Symbolization, and Realization . . . . .	410
Integrative Limitations, Adverse Events, and Traumatic and Traumatizing Events .	411
Dissociation in Trauma and Dissociative Subsystems . . . . .	412
Prototypical Dissociative Parts . . . . .	413
Dissociative Parts and Consciousness . . . . .	414
Enactive Trauma Therapy . . . . .	415
Enactive Trauma Clinicians . . . . .	415
Egalitarianism . . . . .	416
Goals . . . . .	416
Attunement, Consensus Building, and Leading . . . . .	417
Enactive Trauma Therapy: Healing Steps . . . . .	418
Embodiment and the Body in Trauma Treatment . . . . .	419
Who Does What and Why? . . . . .	419
Pointland, Lineland, Flatland, and Spaceland . . . . .	419
Phobias . . . . .	420
Imaginal Exposure . . . . .	421
Concretizations . . . . .	421
Overcoming the Trinity of Trauma in Psychiatry, Psychology, and Psychotherapy .	422
Society and Chronic Childhood Traumatization . . . . .	423
Appendix 1: Some Notes on the Efficacy of Enactive Trauma Therapy . . . . .	427
Appendix 2: The Need for and the Utility of Minimal Constraints on the Concept of Dissociative Parts . . . . .	434
Appendix 3: The Somatoform Dissociation Questionnaire (SDQ-20) . . . . .	451
Appendix 4: The Somatoform Dissociation Questionnaire (SDQ-5) . . . . .	458
Appendix 5: The Traumatic Experiences Checklist (TEC) . . . . .	462
References . . . . .	473
Author Index . . . . .	495
Subject Index . . . . .	497