

Contents

1	Introduction	1
2	An example search for a third-generation supersymmetric quark partner	2
3	Performance measures of machine learning techniques applied to particle physics searches	3
4	Loss functions to directly optimise neural networks for discovery significance	5
5	Results	7
6	Conclusions	11