

Table of Contents

Barbara Lange, Dirk Hildebrandt and Agata Pietrasik
Europe, a Challenge 9
An Introduction

Narratives

Éva Forgács
Shaping the Narrative of a New Europe in Art 31
Willem Sandberg and the Stedelijk Museum of Amsterdam's Retrieval of Malevich

Simon Vagts
Bodies, Factories, and Islands 51
Roberto Rossellini Mapping Catastrophe

Practices

Barbara Lange
Community and Communism 75
Asger Jorn's Concept of Ceramics

Dirk Hildebrandt
The Politics of Asger Jorn's Modification 97
Writing a Network of European Postwar Art

Agata Pietrasik
Imagining the Future of Postwar Europe 123
An International Artist Settlement in Mauthausen

Identities

Hildegard Frübis
Europe as Transit	141
Jewish Displaced-Persons Camps and the Photographs of Roman Vishniac
Regina Wenninger
Overcoming Ideological Barriers?	155
How West German Art Critics Appropriated Polish Abstract Art
Tanja Zimmermann
Primitivism and Naïveté as Categories of Political Aesthetics	173
Early Approaches against Eurocentrism in Art Criticism after the Second World War

Particularities

Pedro Lapa
Joaquim Rodrigo's Painting	197
A Particularity in the Portuguese Case
Elisabeth Ansel
'Emancipated from Provincial Myth'	213
The Irish Artist Louis le Brocquy in the Context of National Debates and European Modernism
Regine Heß
Display, Discuss, and Build	235
German Architectural Congresses and Exhibitions between Continuity and Cold War
Contributors	261
Index	265