

Contents

They'll Never Walk Alone Introduction Boris Buden, Lina Dokuzović	11
An Avant-Garde Figure or a Role Model? The Relevance of Gastarbeiters Today
On the Intersections of Globalized Capitalism and National Polities: Gastarbeiters, Refugees, Irregular Migrants Monika Mokre	29
Humanitarianism Destroys Politicality An Interview with Sandro Mezzadra by Davor Konjikušić	43
Migration und Integration. Zur Genealogie des zentralen Dispositivs in der Migrationsgesellschaft Manuela Bojadžijev	53
Lotta Continua in Frankfurt, Türken-Terror in Köln. Migrantische Kämpfe in der Geschichte der Bundesrepublik Serhat Karakayalı	71
“Home, Foreign Home” – Commemorating the 50-Year Anniversary of the Signing of the Agreement on Labor Migration between Austria and Yugoslavia Jana Dolečki	89
Marginalized and Invisible Experiences – Women Gastarbeiters and Queer Flight
How to Speak Precarious Histories from a Precarious Position? From Guests to GUESTures Margareta Kern	105

How to Speak Precarious Histories from a Precarious Position? Form(s) of Knowledge. Nothing Is Given...
Katja Kobolt	125
Fragments of Queer Mobility
Amir Hodžić	145
The Time in Time of Hospitality
Ana Hoffner	161
Rethinking "Guests" and "Workers" in Post-Fordist Forms of Labor Mobility
From Guest Workers to Guest Consumers: A Disposable Labor Force in the Age of Cognitive Capitalism
Lina Dokuzović	179
The Freedom of the Translator in the Age of Precarious Mobility: The Humanities, Area Studies, and Logistics
Jon Solomon	197
On the Envy of the Servant and the Benevolence of the Master
Keti Chukhrov	229
Überlegungen zur Geschichte der „Gastarbeit“
Stefan Nowotny	249
They'll Never Walk Alone: A Discursive Experiment	269
Biographies	283