

Contents

Foreword	vii
Introduction	xv
Notes	xxii
Traditional Theories of Sovereignty	1
1. Order and Orientation: Primitive Usurpation (Jean Bodin)	4
1.1 What Is Sovereignty?	5
1.2 Competence-Competence and Limitation-Limitations	11
1.3 Peace through Violence	16
2. Binding and Blinding: The Rhetorics of Obligation (Thomas Hobbes)	17
2.1 Might Is Right	18
2.2 The State and Its Limits	27
2.3 The Ironic Justification of Power	33
3. Divide and Conquer: Autonomy as Heteronomy (Jean-Jacques Rousseau)	37
3.1 The Problème Fondamental and Its Solution	38
3.2 What Is Popular Sovereignty?	42
3.3 Forced Freedom	50
4. Internalise and Internationalise: Subordinate Sovereignty (Immanuel Kant)	53
4.1 The Human Right to the State	53
4.2 The Rule of Reason	59
4.3 Coercion and the End of Reason	69
5. Interim Conclusion: Ironies of the Political	71
Notes	73
Critical Theories of Sovereignty	89
1. The Critique of Law-Positing Violence (Karl Marx and Hannah Arendt)	95
1.1 The Dawn of Critical Sovereignty Theory: Karl Marx	95
1.2 Sovereignty as the Loss of Politics: Hannah Arendt	104
1.3 Marx and Arendt: A New Virtuosity of the Political	111
2. The Critique of Law-Preserving Violence (Walter Benjamin and Michel Foucault)	113
2.1 Critical Theory of the Police: Walter Benjamin	113
2.2 The Law of Sovereignty, the Mechanics of Discipline: Michel Foucault	123

2.3 Benjamin and Foucault: Politics beyond the State	133
3. The Critique of Law-Withholding Violence (Giorgio Agamben)	134
3.1 Exception and Exclusion	135
3.2 Exception and the External	140
3.3 Sovereignty and Latency	144
4. The Critique of Law-Interpreting Violence (Robert Cover and Jacques Derrida)	146
4.1 The Non-Opposition of Law and Violence in the Work of Robert Cover	147
4.2 Aporias of Decision in the Work of Jacques Derrida	151
4.3 The (Im)possibility of the Non Liqueur	154
5. The Critique of Law-Splitting Violence (Feminist Critique of Sovereignty)	159
5.1 The Four Dimensions of the State's Masculinism	159
5.2 Feminist Critique of Sovereignty: Abortion, Bio-Politics and Omniconpetence	163
5.3 Post-Masculine Politics in the World of Sovereignty	166
Excursus: Law-Replacing Violence (Problems of Passage)	167
Notes	174
Critical Theory without Sovereignty	191
1. Law without Coercion (Hermann Cohen)	196
2. Commandment without the State (Franz Rosenzweig)	202
3. Participation and Dissidence: Consequences of a Critical Theory of/without Sovereignty	210
Notes	217
Literature	225
1. Abbreviations	225
2. Further Literature	228
Index	243