

1	Material Cycles	1
1.1	Examples from the Natural Environment	1
1.2	Developments and Drivers of Recycling	3
1.3	Typification of Material Cycles in the Construction Industry	10
1.4	Material Balance and Anthropogenic Building Material Stock	14
	References	19
2	Material Flow Management	21
2.1	Basic Terms	21
2.2	Classification of Construction and Demolition Waste	26
2.3	Construction- Specific Key Figures	31
2.3.1	Quantities and Types of Waste Generated During the Construction and Renovation of Structures	31
2.3.2	Quantities and Types of Waste from Demolition and Dismantling	35
2.4	Waste Management Key Figures	40
	References	47
3	Regulations for the Handling of Construction and Demolition Waste	51
3.1	Legal Requirements	51
3.2	Environmental Regulations	53
3.3	Building Regulations	59
	References	62
4	Processing of Construction and Demolition Waste	65
4.1	Size Reduction	68
4.1.1	Basic Concepts	68
4.1.2	Performance of Crushers	76
4.1.3	Effects of Comminution	83

4.2	Screening	92
4.2.1	Basic Concepts	92
4.2.2	Types of Screening Machines	94
4.2.3	Selection of the Suitable Screening Machine	98
4.3	Sorting	100
4.3.1	Basic Concepts	100
4.3.2	Dry Sorting Methods	109
4.3.3	Wet Sorting Methods	113
4.3.4	Sorting Methods for Ferrous and Non-Ferrous Metals	124
	References	125
5	Plants for the Treatment of Construction and Demolition Waste	127
5.1	Overview of System Types	127
5.2	Building Rubble Treatment Plants in Germany	130
5.2.1	Stationary Systems	130
5.2.2	Mobile Systems	145
	References	146
6	Recycling of Reclaimed Asphalt	149
6.1	Basic Terms	149
6.2	Statistics on Consumption of Primary Material and Waste Generation	156
6.3	Properties of Reclaimed Asphalt	157
6.4	Recycling Technologies	161
6.4.1	Recycling in Place	161
6.4.2	Recycling in Plant	162
6.4.3	Recycling of Materials Containing Tar Pitch	170
	References	173
7	Recycling of Concrete Rubble	175
7.1	Basic Terms	175
7.2	Developments, Produced Quantities and Existing Stock	178
7.3	Specific Properties of Recyclates and Recycled Concretes	182
7.3.1	Heterogeneity of Recycled Aggregates	182
7.3.2	Reaction Potential of Recycled Aggregates	185
7.3.3	Concretes from Recycled Aggregates as Composites	188
7.4	Properties of Recycled Aggregates of Concrete Rubble	194
7.5	Recovery	205
7.5.1	Utilization in Earthworks	208
7.5.2	Utilization in Road Construction	209
7.5.3	Utilization as Aggregate for the Production of Concrete	214
	References	228

8	Recycling of Masonry Rubble	237
8.1	Basic Terms	237
8.2	Developments, Produced Quantities and Existing Stock	239
8.3	Features of Masonry Building Materials	242
8.3.1	Typology	242
8.3.2	Properties of Unmixed Components of Masonry Rubble	245
8.4	Properties of Recycled Building Materials from Masonry Rubble	250
8.5	Utilization of the Pure Components of Masonry Rubble	254
8.5.1	Pure Clay Brick Aggregates	254
8.5.2	Pure Aggregates of Calcium Silica Bricks	263
8.5.3	Pure Aggregates of Aerated Autoclaved Concrete	266
8.5.4	Pure Aggregates of Lightweight Concrete	268
8.6	Application of Mixed Masonry Rubble	270
	References	271
9	Recycling of Other Types of Construction Waste	277
9.1	Track Ballast	277
9.1.1	Characteristics of Primary Material and Waste	277
9.1.2	Recycling Technologies and Products	279
9.2	Gypsum	283
9.2.1	Characteristics of Primary Material and Waste	283
9.2.2	Recycling Technologies and Products	287
9.2.3	Downcycling of Gypsum Waste	289
9.3	Fiber Cement	290
9.3.1	Characteristics of Primary Material and Waste	290
9.3.2	Recycling Technologies and Products	292
9.4	Mineral Wool	293
9.4.1	Characteristics of Primary Material and Waste	293
9.4.2	Recycling Technologies and Products	297
9.5	Glass	299
9.5.1	Characteristics of Primary Material and Waste	299
9.5.2	Recycling Technologies and Products	301
	References	305
10	Advanced Recycling	309
10.1	Processing	309
10.1.1	Comminution	309
10.1.2	Sorting	319
10.1.3	Plant Concepts	324
10.2	Raw Material Recycling	327
	References	339
	Index	345