

Content

- 1 Anniversary dates and transformation phases in the company's history — 1

- 2 Founder Consortia, Major Investors and Key Shareholders Corporate Governance and Prominent Figures in Continental's History — 49
 - Siegmund Seligmann: The Rise to Become a Large Modern Enterprise — 49
 - Willy Tischbein and the Americanization of Continental in the 1920s — 60
 - The Major Shareholder between the Weimar Republic and the Era of the Economic Miracle: Continental and the Opel Family — 73
 - Alfred Herrhausen and Carl H. Hahn: Steering Continental through the Major Crisis — 83
 - Two Takeover Attempts and the Search for a Key Shareholder: Turbulent Corporate Governance Structures Between 1990 and 2010 — 93

- 3 The People of Continental Identities and Interests in Times of Upheaval in the Working World — 99
 - The Development of the Continental Workforce Through the Lens of Corporate Social and Welfare Policy (1871 to 1918) — 101
 - Self-confident Continental Employees and an Instrumentalized Company Community. Working Worlds, Conflicts and Identity (1918 to 1945) — 110
 - Cold War and Class Struggles at Continental. Collective Bargaining Conflicts, disputes about production sites and Solidarity (1945/48 to 1990/91) — 118
 - The Globalization of Continental in the Context of Production Relocations and Transformations in the World of Working (1990s to the Present) — 140

- 4 Rubber—Resource Management, Sustainability and Environment, or: the Metamorphosis of a Key Raw Material
Global Conflicts over Natural Rubber and a Sunken Rubber Steamer Named “Continental” in Brazil (1870s to 1920s) — 162
Mobilization of Resources During the Nazi Era: German Rubber and the Radical Upheaval of Raw Materials — 171
Raw Material Management in the Context of the Korean War and Oil Price Crises (1950s to Early 1980s) — 175
Sustainable Supply Chain Management, “Dandelion Rubber” and “Smart Rubber.” Upheavals in the Raw Materials World from the Early 1980s to Today — 181
- 5 A Brief History of the Continental Tire, or: the Metamorphoses of a High-tech Product and the Continental Product Portfolio — 191
The Eternal Search to Square a Circle, or: “A Tire for Well-being” — 194
Conti Inside. A Changing Product Portfolio, or: Aspects of a history of experience with Continental products — 217
- 6 The Continental Shares
The Life Cycle of a Security in a Changing Capital Market — 228
The Varied Career of Continental Shares, from a “Dividend Behemoth” to a “Widow-and-Orphan Stock” in Times of Crisis: 1879 to the Early 1930s — 228
From the Economic “Miracle Years” to a Long Period of Crisis: the Boom and Bust of Continental Shares from 1948 to the mid-1980s — 240
Continental Shares in the Era of Financial Market Capitalism (1985 to 2020): From the Soaring Flight of a Stock Market Darling to the Stall in the Wake of the Corona Crisis — 251
- 7 From Local Trademark to Global Brand
The Brand and its Marketing in Continental’s History — 269
The Horse’s Importance for the “Continental” Brand — 269
The Continental Color and Brand Strategy — 276
The customer magazine Echo Continental was a reflection of the company’s progressive image — 280

Talking tires and travelling workers: Characters in Continental advertisements — 289

Modern advertising formats and repositioning the company as a mobility service provider — 294

8 Continental as a Global Company

The Long Road Toward Internationalization — 306

The internationalization at the heart of the company's early strategy — 306

Collaborations and establishing an international network (1889–1914) — 310

Collapse of the network abroad and re-internationalization during the 1920s — 316

Export strategy in the Nazi era and focussing on the domestic market until well into the 1970s — 325

The four phases of internationalization at Continental (1979 to present) — 331

9 Between Vision and Speculation

Continental in 2046, or: The History of Past and Present Expectations for the Future within the Company — 339

The Invention of New Mobility as a Result of Mastering the Raw Material of the Future. Continental's Long "Rubber Age" (1870s to 1930s) — 340

No Visions, or: The Key to the Future is Managing the Present (1930s to 1970s) — 344

Visions of an Integrated Supplier and Technology Corporation and of "Intelligent Tires" (1980s to 2001) — 349

The Future Seems Plannable. Orientation Toward the "Mobility of the Future" (2002 to 2020) — 352

Operating System Provider of Software-supported Mobility: Continental in 2046 — 358

Annex

Annex 1 Member of the Executive Board — 365

Annex 2 Number of Continental Employees — 369

Annex 3 Sales Development — 371

Annex 4a Members of the Supervisory Board
(Shareholder Representatives) — 373

Annex 4b Members of the Supervisory Board
(Employee representatives) — 378

Image credits — 381