

Table of Content

Acknowledgements	vii
General Introduction	1

Part One

Joseph Ratzinger's Critique of Modern Exegesis

Introduction	8
--------------------	---

Chapter One: Joseph Ratzinger's Understanding of Revelation – Tradition und Scripture

1.1 Revelation	13
1.1.1 Revelation as Dialogue	14
1.1.2 Jesus Christ is the Revelation of God	16
1.2 The Revealed Word among the Faithful: Scripture and Tradition	18
1.2.1 Tradition	19
1.2.1.1 Tradition as Ecclesial Interpretation of Jesus-Event	19
1.2.1.2 The Pneumatological Dimension of the Concept of Tradition	23
1.2.1.3 The Church as the Embodiment of Tradition	26
1.2.1.4 The Magisterium as the Witness of Tradition	28
1.2.1.5 The Possibility of a Deforming Tradition	30
1.2.2 Scripture	31
1.2.2.1 Revelation and Scripture	31
1.2.2.2 Inspiration as the 'Centre-Piece' of Christian Understanding of Scripture	32
1.2.2.3 The Canon of Scripture	36
1.2.2.4 Scripture in the Service of the Faith	37
1.2.2.5 Scripture and the Church	38
1.2.2.6 The Central Theme of Scripture	39
1.3 Tradition, Scripture, and Church as Essential Elements of Exegesis	42

Chapter Two: Critique of the Historical-Critical Exegesis

2.1 The Necessity and Function of the Historical Critical Exegesis	49
2.1.1 The Necessity of the Historical Research	51
2.1.2 The Watchman Office of Exegesis	53
2.2 The Philosophical Origins of the Historical Critical Exegesis	60
2.2.1 Kantian Philosophy as Background of Modern Exegesis ...	61
2.2.2 The Historical Critical Exegesis as an Objective and Exact

Science	62
2.3 Critique of the Tools of the Historical Critical Exegesis	66
2.3.1 Critique of Literary Criticism	67
2.3.2 Critique of Form Criticism	72
2.3.2.1 Proclamation Precedes Event	72
2.3.2.2 The Theory of Discontinuity	75
2.3.2.3 The Evolutional Theory of Textual Developmen	79
2.3.2.4 The Theory of Hellenization	81
2.3.3 Critique of Tradition Criticism	86
2.3.4 Critique of Redaction Criticism	89
2.4 History and the Historical in the Gospels	89
2.4.1 The Historical Status of the Gospels	90
2.4.2 The Johannine Question	93
2.4.2.1 Determinant Sources and Influences on the Gospel According to John	94
2.4.2.2 Authorship of the Gospel According to John	97
2.4.2.3 Historicity of the Gospel According to St. John	99
2.5 Jesus of Nazareth: Attempt as Synthesis	104
2.5.1 Critique of the Life-of-Jesus Research	105
2.5.2 Critique of the Historical Jesus of Modern Exegesis	109
2.5.3 The Question about Jesus' Self-Consciousness	114
2.5.3.1 Jesus as the 'Son'	116
2.5.3.2 Jesus Came on a Mission	125
2.5.3.3 The Event of the Baptism of Jesus	127
2.5.3.4 The Torah of the Messiah – the Witness of the Synoptics	132
2.5.4 The Resurrection	140
2.5.5 Was Jesus in his Humanity Truly God?	144
2.6 Pastoral Criticism of the Historical Critical Exegesis	149
2.6.1 Historical Critical Exegesis and the Spiritual Life	150
2.6.2 Historical Critical Exegesis and the Normative Function of Scripture	152
2.6.3 Historical Criticism and the Liturgy	153
2.6.4 Historical Criticism and Catechesis	154
2.6.5 The Historical Research and Christian Ethics	157
2.6.6 The Historical Critical Exegesis versus Tradition	158
2.6.7 The Historical Critical Exegesis versus the Church	160
2.6.8 The Historical Critical Exegesis versus the Magisterium	162
2.7 The Limitations and Place of the Historical Critical Exegesis	163
2.7.1 Restricted to the Past	163
2.7.2 Restricted to the Corporreally Human Sphere	164
2.7.3 Limited to Hypothesis	164

2.7.4	The Place of the Historical Critical Exegesis	168
2.8	Joseph Ratzinger and the Historical Research	168
Chapter Three: Theology of Liberation and its Exegesis		173
3.1	The Background of the Liberation Theology	174
3.2	The Hermeneutical Method of Liberation Theology	175
3.2.1	Marxism as the Hermeneutical Philosophy behind Liberation Theology	175
3.2.2	Orthopraxis as Motivating Goal	179
3.3	Some Exegetical Themes of Liberation Theology	180
3.3.1	Faith as Fidelity to History	180
3.3.2	Hope as Trust and Work for the Future	181
3.3.3	Love as ‘Option for the Poor’	181
3.3.4	The Kingdom of God	183
3.3.4.1	Liberation Theology and the Concept of the Kingdom of God	183
3.3.4.2	The Concept of the Kingdom of God in History	185
3.3.4.3	The ‘Kingdom of God’ as the Sovereignty of God’s Will	186
3.3.4.4	Jesus is the Kingdom of God	188
3.3.4.5	Discipleship as the Realisation of the ‘Kingdom of God’	189
3.3.5	The Death and Resurrection of Jesus	191
3.4	The Concern of Liberation Theology	192
3.5	Reactions to Joseph Ratzinger’s Critique	194

Chapter Four: Reformulating Exegesis		199
4.1	The Path to a New Exegesis	199
4.1.1	Faith as the Parameter of Biblical Interpretation	202
4.1.2	Faith in the Christian Context	204
4.1.3	The Place of Belief in the Understanding of Reality	206
4.1.4	The Unity of the Bible	209
4.1.5	Scripture and the Church	212
4.2	Canonical Exegesis	214
4.2.1	The Emergence of the Canonical Exegesis	214
4.2.2	Joseph Ratzinger and the Canonical Exegesis	217
4.2.3	Factors Affecting Canonical Exegesis	219

Part Two

Fazlur Rahman Critique of Qur’anic Exegesi

Introduction	222
--------------------	-----

Chapter Five: Fazlur Rahman’s Understanding of Revelation and Scripture	229
--	------------

5.1	Scripture in Islam	230
5.1.1	The Qur'an Is Verbally Revealed	231
5.1.1.1	The Night of the Revelation	234
5.1.1.2	The Qur'an – a Miracle and a Sign	236
5.1.1.3	The Uncreatedness and Eternalness of the Qur'an	239
5.1.2	The Finality of the Qur'an	241
5.1.2	The Qur'an as Law Giver	245
5.1.4	The Difficulty of the Verbal Revelation	246
5.2	Fazlur Rahman's Understanding of Scripture	250
5.2.1	The Interwovenness of the Qur'an with the Person of the Prophet	254
5.2.1.1	The Prophetic Intellect	257
5.2.1.2	Prophetic Vision (Revelation)	262
5.2.2	The Agent of Revelation	264
5.2.3	The Basic Thrust of the Qur'an	267
5.2.4	The Qur'an and the Revealed Scriptures	272
Chapter Six: Critique of Traditional Qur'anic Exegesis		279
6.1	Tradition as Interpreter of Scripture	279
6.1.1	The Sunnah and its Progressive Fulfilment in Ijtihad and Ijma	280
6.1.1.1	The Emergence of the Hadith as Interpreter of the Qur'an	284
6.1.1.2	The Structure and Science of the Hadith	285
6.1.1.3	The Hadith as a Stabilising, Synthesis Sunnah	288
6.1.1.4	Reinterpreting the Hadith	293
6.1.1.5	The Sunnah as Interpreter of the Qur'an	296
6.1.2	Further Trends in Traditional Exegesis	300
6.1.3	Rahman and Tradition	304
6.2	Critique of Islamic Mysticism	307
6.2.1	The Mystical Motive	308
6.2.2	The Epistemology of Islamic Mysticism	309
6.2.3	The 'Mythologies' of Sufism	312
6.2.4	Rahman and Islamic Mysticism	314
6.3	Critique of Islamic Rationalism	314
6.4	Allegorical Exegesis	316
6.4.1	Allegory at the Service of Sectarian Interest – The Cult of Ali and the Imame	316
6.4.2	Ismaili Allegorism and the Basrian Brethren of Purity	320
6.4.3	Allegorisation and the Course of Exegesis	323
6.5	Islamic Law (Fiqh) and the Qur'an	325
6.5.1	The Development of Islamic Law	325

6.5.2	Qur’anic Injunctions as Moral Rather than Legal	327
6.5.3	Ethics – The Missing Link Between Fiqh and Theology	328
6.5.4	Islamic Structure of Punishment and the Qur’an - The Concept of Hadd	332
6.5.5	Legislation in Islam and the ‘Occasion of Revelation’	336
6.5.6	Reformulating the Methodology of Islamic Law	336

Chapter Seven: Critique of Modern Trends in Qur’anic Exegesis 339

7.1	Islamic Revivalism	339
7.1.1	Islamic Pre-Modernist Revivalism	340
7.1.2	Islamic Neo-Revivalism (Fundamentalism)	342
7.2	Critique of the Modernists’ Approach	345
7.2.1	Mechanical or Artificial Manipulation	347
7.2.2	Mythologization of the Prophet	348
7.2.3	The Modernist Theory of Evolution of Divine Legislation	349
7.2.4	Modernism versus Traditionalism	352
7.3	Historical Criticism	353
7.3.1	The Qur’an as History	355
7.3.2	Rejection of Tradition Criticism?	361
7.3.3	Limitation of Historical Research to ‘Occasions of Revelation’	369
7.3.4	Countering some Wrong Approaches to ‘Occasions of Revelation’	371
7.3.5	Post Revelation Historical Research	377
7.3.6	Verbal Revelation and Historical Criticism	378
7.4	Fazlur Rahman and Modernism	379

Chapter Eight: The New Ijtihad

8.1	The ‘Double Movement’ Interpretation	383
8.1.1	Fazlur Rahman and the ‘Objectivity School’	386
8.1.2	Historical Criticism as the Engine of the ‘Double Movement’	387
8.1.3	Fazlur Rahman versus Gadamer’s ‘Effective History’	388
8.1.4	The Double Movement and Other Methods of Exegesis	390
8.2	The Key Points of Fazlur Rahman’s Proposition	391
8.2.1	Holistic Interpretation of the Qur’an	391
8.2.2	Thematic Interpretation of the Qur’an	393
8.2.3	The Theory of Progressive Revelation	395
8.2.4	Faith-Oriented Interpretation	398
8.3	Rahman’s application of the ‘Double Movement’ Method	398
8.4	Merits and Demerits of the ‘Double Movement’	405

Part Three

Drawing from the Crisis in Biblical and Qur'anic Exegesis

Introduction	410
Chapter Nine: Drawing from the Crisis in Biblical and Qur'anic Exegesis	413
Exegesis	413
9.1 Similarities between Biblical and Qur'anic Exegesis	413
9.1.1 Common Views	413
9.1.1.1 The Origin of Scripture	414
9.1.1.2 Scripture and Tradition	415
9.1.1.3 Faith and Exegesis	418
9.1.1.4 The Binding Nature of the Canon	421
9.1.2 Common Problems	422
9.1.2.1 Rationalism	422
9.1.2.2 Traditionalism	424
9.1.2.3 Tendentious exegesis	425
9.1.2.4 The Problem of Allegorism	426
9.2 Points of Divergence	427
9.2.1 Revelation – Verbal, Inspired	427
9.2.1.1 The Concern of the Doctrine of Verbal Revelation	431
9.2.1.2 The Concern of the Doctrine of Inspiration	433
9.2.2 The Thrust of Scripture	436
9.2.3 The Place of Tradition in Exegesis	437
9.2.4 The Place of the Historical Research in Exegesis (Occasion Of Revelation)	438
9.3 Interpreting the Person of Jesus Christ	441
9.3.1 Common Ground – the Extraordinary in Jesus	441
9.3.2 The Eternity of the Word of God	442
9.3.3 Point of Disagreement – the divinity of Jesus	444
9.4 The Role of the Sciences in Exegesis	446
9.4.1 The Place of the Historical Research in Exegesis	447
9.4.2 The Role of the Human Sciences in Exegesis	448
9.4.3 The Role of the Natural Sciences in Exegesis	450
9.5 Conclusion	451
Bibliography	453