

Contents

Preface	vii
Conventions, glossary and units of measure	xi
Introduction	xiii
Chapter 1
Constraints on military disruption of the biosphere: an overview Arthur H. Westing	1
Chapter 2
The historical evolution of cultural norms relating to war and the environment Geoffrey Best	18
Chapter 3
Cultural norms in the USSR relating to war and the environment Grigori S. Khozin	29
Chapter 4
Gender as an influence on cultural norms relating to war and the environment Virginia Held	44
Chapter 5
The special challenge of our time: cultural norms relating to nuclearism Richard A. Falk	53
Chapter 6
The law as a force in shaping cultural norms relating to war and the environment Christopher D. Stone	64
Chapter 7
Formal education as a force in shaping cultural norms relating to war and the environment Birgit Brock-Utne	83
Chapter 8
The news media as forces in shaping cultural norms relating to war and the environment David M. Rubin	101

Chapter 9

The arts as forces in shaping cultural norms relating to war and the environment 121

Rosalind J. Marsh

Chapter 10

Towards non-violent conflict resolution and environmental protection: a synthesis 151

Arthur H. Westing

Appendix 1

Cultural norms in relation to war and the environment: select bibliography 161

Appendix 2

Multilateral treaties constraining military disruption of the environment: excerpts 163

Appendix 3

International declarations constraining military disruption of the environment: excerpts 169

Appendix 4

Codes constraining military disruption of the environment: excerpts 170

Index

173