

Contents

3		Preliminary remarks
4	Dr Elisabeth Pott Bundeszentrale für gesundheitliche Aufklärung	Preface
Welcoming statements
5	Welcoming statement by the Federal Ministry for the Family, Senior Citizens, Women and Youth	Welcoming statement
6	Welcoming statement from the city of Freiburg Peter Marquard Director of Youth and Social Services, City of Freiburg	Welcoming statement
Introductory addresses
8	Dr Elisabeth Pott Director of the Bundeszentrale für gesundheitliche Aufklärung	Family planning as a task for the Bundeszentrale für gesundheitliche Aufklärung
11	Dr Assia Brandrup-Lukanow Regional Adviser on Women's and Reproductive Health European Office of the World Health Organisation	Reproductive health – the WHO perspective
Continuities and change in the family and family planning
14	Prof. Norbert Schneider Institut für Soziologie Universität of Mainz	Does social change mean a break with the past? Changes in the family in eastern and western Germany
22	Prof. Cornelia Helfferich Sozialwissenschaftliches FrauenForschungsInstitut	Reproductive cultures in East und West – continuities and change
29	Prof. Kurt Starke Gesellschaft für Sexualwissenschaft	Reproductive cultures in East und West – children and childlessness
Reproductive events and decisions: structural aspects of life-histories
36	Heike Klindworth Sozialwissenschaftliches FrauenForschungsInstitut	Family-planning in the context of reproductive biographies
42	Prof. Wilfried Karmaus/Silvia Krumm Department of Epidemiology Michigan State University	Family structure, ethnicity, religion and sex education: a comparison of survey data from the USA and Germany
49	Barbara Keddı Deutsches Jugendinstitut Munich	The life themes of young women
55	Miriam Engelhardt Sozialwissenschaftliches FrauenForschungsInstitut	Wanting, planning, accepting, deciding – intentionality in the framework of reproductive cultures
60	Peter Cuyvers Netherlands Family Council (in collaboration with Hans Akkerboom, University of Maastricht, and Jan Latten, Statistics Netherlands)	Partner interaction and reproductive decisions
Future outlook: Panel discussion
67		Panel discussion
69		Addresses