Sylvia Mayer
Introduction 1

Christine Gerhardt

Barbara Cook
Enclosed by Racist Politics: Space, Place, and Power Dynamics in the Slave Narrative of Harriet Jacobs and in Environmental Justice Activism 31

Suzanne Clark
Narrative Fitness: Science, Nature, and Zora Neale Hurston’s Folk Culture 45

Ann-Catherine Nabholz
Harlem and Primitivism: A Green Reading of Claude McKay’s Celebration of Ethnicity in an Urban Context 73

Monika Geilern
Of Parasites and Humans: Encounters with Nature in Richard Wright’s Native Son and Charles Johnson’s Dreamer 97

Charlotte Zoë Walker
“Wounded Green”: Spirit, War, Death and Environmental Justice in Toni Cade Bambara’s “The Sea Birds are Still Alive” and “Going Critical” 117

Tina Richardson
Changing Landscapes: Mapping Breast Cancer as an Environmental Justice Issue in Audre Lorde’s The Cancer Journals 129

Christa Grewe-Volpp
Octavia Butler and the Nature/Culture Divide: An Ecofeminist Approach to the Xenogenesis-Trilogy 149

Sylvia Mayer
Genre and Environmentalism: Octavia Butler’s Parable of the Sower, Speculative Fiction, and the African American Slave Narrative 175

Contributors 197