TABLE OF CONTENTS

Index of Tables III
Index of Figures IV
Abbreviations and Acronyms V

1. Introduction 1

2. Theoretical Background 4
   2.1. Theories of International Migration: Reasons for Migration 4
      2.1.1. Supply-Push Models 5
         2.1.1.1. Neoclassical Economics: Macro Theory 5
         2.1.1.2. Neoclassical Economics: Micro Theory 5
         2.1.1.3. The New Economics of Migration 6
         2.1.1.4. World System Theory 7
      2.1.2. Demand-Pull-Models: Segmented Labor Market Theory 8
      2.1.3. Social Capital Theory 8
   2.2. Migration and Foreign Trade Theory 9
      2.2.1. The Mobility of Goods and Factors in Foreign Trade Theory 9
      2.2.2. Welfare Effects of the Mobility of Goods and Factors 11
   2.3. Conclusion 12

3. Reasons for Mexican Migration to the United States under the North American Free Trade Agreement 13
   3.1. Background: Economic Integration under NAFTA 13
   3.2. Mexican Migration to the U.S. under NAFTA:
      The “Migration Hump” 15
   3.3. Reasons for Mexican Migration to the U.S. under NAFTA 16
      3.3.1. Supply-Push Factors: Determinants on the Mexican Side 16
         3.3.1.1. Macroeconomic Variables 17
         3.3.1.2. Cost-Benefit Analysis 20
         3.3.1.3. Risk Diversification 21
         3.3.1.4. Uprooting of Traditional Socioeconomic Relations 23
      3.3.2. Demand-Pull Factors: Determinants on the U.S.-American Side 26
      3.3.3. Social Capital Theory 28
3.3.4. Remaining Impediments to Trade and Investment 30
  3.3.4.1. Trade Barriers 30
  3.3.4.2. Domestic Support Programs in the United States 31
  3.3.4.3. Barriers to Investment in Mexico 33
3.3.5. Mexico’s Comparative Disadvantage 33
3.3.6. Conclusion 34

4. Policy Recommendations 35
  4.1. Background: Benefits and Costs of Mexican Immigration to the U.S. 36
  4.2. Open the Border 38
  4.3. Address the Demand-Pull Factors in the U.S. Labor Market 40
    4.3.1. Substitute Immigrant Workers 40
    4.3.2. Expand the Number of Legal Entry Visas 41
  4.4. Address the Supply-Push Factors in Mexico: Reduce Migration 44
    4.4.1. Raise the Costs and Lower the Benefits of Migration 45
    4.4.2. Improve the Access to Markets and Shape Income Distribution 50
    4.4.3. Create Social Development Programs 51
    4.4.4. Cut Remaining Barriers on Trade and Investment 52
  4.5. Conclusion 54

5. Conclusion 56