

CONTENTS

	Page
PREFACE . . . . .	vii
INTRODUCING THE TEAM . . . . .	ix
TABLES AND CHARTS . . . . .	xxxii

PART I. IDEAS AND IDEALS

CHAPTER 1. MAN AND THE STATE, Fritz Morstein Marx

1. THE NATURE OF POLITICAL MAN . . . . .	3
Human Need and Human Knowledge, 3; Comprehension and Emotion, 3; Political Man's Complexity, 4; Abstract Man's Trickery, 5.
2. THE VALUE OF COMPARISON . . . . .	5
Use of Comparative Study, 5; Extension of Comparability, 6; Common Features of Government, 7; Comparison and Imitation, 8; Current Benefits of Comparative Analysis, 8.
3. POLITICAL MAN AS ORGANIZED MAN . . . . .	9
Man Under Government, 9; Foundations of Political Organization, 10; Compulsion of National Status, 10; Conscious Self-Organization, 11; Interfering Factors, 11; Effect of Personal Interests, 12; Variables of Political Behavior, 12; Impact on Political Life, 13; Self-Organization and Political Theory, 13.
4. IDEAS, INSTITUTIONS, AND REALITIES . . . . .	14
Ideas as Institutional Supports, 14; Ideas as Unified Frame of Reference, 15; Ideas as Moral Law, 15; Interrelations of Value Systems, 16; Harmony of Political Values, 17; Role of Ideology, 17; Ideological Deception, 18; Adaptation of Ideology, 18.

CHAPTER 2. ALTERNATIVES OF IDEOLOGY, Fritz Morstein Marx

1. THE BASIC THEMES . . . . .	20
Individuality and Community, 20; Collectivist Variations, 20; Synthesis of Values, 21.
2. THE CONFUCIAN TRADITION . . . . .	21
Distinguishing Features, 21; Place of Government, 22; Education for Righteous Living, 22; Doctrinal Adjustments, 23.

	Page
3. FOUNDATIONS OF WESTERN POLITICAL THOUGHT . . . . .	23
Early Variety of Political Experience, 23; Government Built on Knowledge, 24; Government Built on Constitutional Rule, 25; Individuality and the Higher Law, 26; Lure of Nationhood, 28; Glorification of the Nation-State, 28; Nationalism and Totalitarianism, 29; Liberalism and Progress, 29; Freedom under Law, 30.
4. THE MARXIST CHALLENGE . . . . .	30
Call for Revolution, 30; Socialism, Old and New, 31; Class and Class Conflict, 31; Marxist Dialectic—Reason and History, 32; Proletarian Dictatorship and Classless Society, 33; Evolution of Marxism, 33.
 PART II. CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT: THE BRITISH WAY
CHAPTER 3. ENGLAND'S CONSTITUTIONAL TRADITION, W. Hardy Wickwar
1. CONSTITUTIONALISM WITHOUT A CONSTITUTION . . . . .	37
Power as Force and Authority, 37; Continuity and Change, 38; Government and the Social Pattern, 38.
2. HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT . . . . .	39
Prime Minister—Background and Status, 39; Selecting the Prime Minister, 40; Term of Office, 40; Ministers—Role and Choice, 41; Dismissal and Resignation, 41; Cabinet Organization and Procedure, 42; Inner Cabinet, 42; Junior Ministers, 43; Cabinet and Its Committees, 43; Trends in Cabinet Operation, 44; Ministerial Division of Labor, 45; Cabinet Secretariat, 45.
3. CABINET AND PARLIAMENT . . . . .	46
Responsibility Versus Separation of Powers, 46; Mutual Responsibility, 46; Cabinet Leadership, 47; Parliamentary Checks, 48; Channels of Influence, 48.
4. THE OPPOSITION . . . . .	49
Institutional Recognition, 49; Procedural Devices, 49; Responsible Opposition, 50; Wartime Record, 50.
5. THE HOUSE OF COMMONS . . . . .	51
Dual Role, 51; Policy Control, 51; Review of Administration, 52; Parliamentary Questions, 53; Parliament and Legislation, 53; Committee Procedure, 54; Delegation of Powers, 54; Concentration of Parliamentary Leadership, 55; Distribution of Influence, 56; Impartiality of the Speaker, 57; The "Other House," 57.
6. CROWN AND SOVEREIGN . . . . .	58
Symbol of Unity, 58; Fountain of Honors, 58; Royal Prerogative, 59; Royal Succession, 60; Sovereignty and Law, 60.

CHAPTER 4. GOVERNMENT BY CONSENT AND DISCUSSION,

W. Hardy Wickwar

	Page
1. POLITICAL PARTIES . . . . .	62
Historic and Geographic Bases, 62; The Conservative Party, 63; Conservative Auxiliary Organizations, 64; The Labor Party, 64; National-Local Relations, 64; Exclusion of Communists, 65; Party Finance, 65; Bases of Labor Support, 66; Party Characteristics, 66.
2. THE ELECTORAL PROCESS . . . . .	67
Constituencies, 67; Winning Constituencies, 67; Electioneering Expenses, 68; Selection of Candidates, 69; Third Parties, 70.
3. GROUP INFLUENCE . . . . .	70
Discussion and Consent, 70; General-Interest Groups, 71; Special-Interest Groups, 72; Relations Between Parties and Interest Groups, 72; Extraconstitutional Action, 73.
4. COMMUNICATION MEDIA . . . . .	73
Old and New, 73; The Press, 74; Political Leanings, 74; Quality of Information, 75; The Radio, 76; Political Impartiality, 77; Films, 77; Governmental Public Relations, 78.
5. CIVIC PARTICIPATION . . . . .	78
Electoral Participation, 78; The Volunteer and the Conscript, 79; Local Administrative Discretion, 80; Local Advisory Bodies, 80; National Policy Formation, 81; Counseling the Departments, 82.
6. HEREDITARY PARTICIPANTS . . . . .	82
House of Lords, 82; Reforming the Lords, 83; The King, 83; Information and Confidence, 84.

CHAPTER 5. THE STRUCTURE OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION,

W. Hardy Wickwar

1. ADMINISTRATIVE POLICY-MAKING . . . . .	85
Formation of Policy, 85; Preparatory Work, 85; Implementation of Policy, 86; Quasi-judicial Determinations, 86.
2. GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS . . . . .	87
Organic Principles, 87; Treasury Control, 88.
3. THE CIVIL SERVICE . . . . .	89
Scope and Status, 89; Entrance Examinations, 90; Recruitment Methods, 90; Specialists and Generalists, 91; Treasury Personnel Management, 91.
4. FIELD ADMINISTRATION . . . . .	92
Principal Ways, 92; National Administration of National Services, 92; Powers and Control, 93; Regional Coordination, 94; National Supervision of Locally Administered Services, 94; Grants in Aid, 95; Inspection, 96; Control of Local Borrowing, 96; Legislative Controls, 96.

	Page
5. LOCAL GOVERNMENT . . . . .	97
The Governmental Map, 97; Toward Larger Units, 97; Special-Purpose Units, 98; Time Lag and the Governmental Map, 99; Community and Neighborhood, 100; Local Government Structure, 100; Local Management, 101; Local Finance, 102.
6. JUDICIAL ADMINISTRATION . . . . .	102
Decline of Local Courts, 102; Judicial Reforms, 103; Criminal Prosecution, 104; Cost of Justice, 104; Judicial Tenure, 104; Impact of the Judiciary, 105.
CHAPTER 6. LIBERTY AND OPPORTUNITY, W. Hardy Wickwar
1. CIVIL LIBERTIES . . . . .	106
Personal Freedom, 106; Freedom of the Press, 107; Other Liberties, 108.
2. CHANGING CONCEPTS OF HUMAN RIGHTS . . . . .	109
Removal of Governmental Interference, 109; Establishment of Governmental Responsibility, 109.
3. GROUPS AND THE STATE . . . . .	111
Group Liberties, 111; Political Pluralism, 111; Groups and Sovereignty, 112.
4. RELIGIOUS LIBERTY . . . . .	112
Structure of the Established Church, 112; Political Role of the Church of England, 113; The Scottish Kirk, 114; Other Churches, 114; Churches and Education, 115.
5. OCCUPATIONAL GROUPS . . . . .	116
Employer Associations, 116; Forms of Organization, 116; Trade Unions, 117; Record of Unionism, 118; Current Problems, 119; Professional Bodies: Lawyers, 119; Physicians, 120; Teachers, 121.
6. UNIVERSITIES . . . . .	121
Bases of Academic Freedom, 121; Security and Stability, 122; Governmental Influence, 123.
7. FOUR COUNTRIES IN ONE . . . . .	123
The United Kingdom, 123; Northern Ireland, 124; Scotland, 125; Wales, 125; Diversity in Unity, 126.

CHAPTER 7. MAIN FUNCTIONS OF GOVERNMENT,

W. Hardy Wickwar

1. ECONOMIC PLANNING . . . . .	128
Rise of Planning, 128; Location of Industry, 129; Securing Full Employment, 129; Land-use Planning, 129; Capital Investment, 130; Bulk Purchasing, 131; Support by Economic Theory, 131.
2. NATIONALIZATION . . . . .	132
Monopoly and Public Control, 132; National versus Local Control, 133; Nationalization Procedure, 133; Management of Nationalized Undertakings, 135.

3. SOCIAL SERVICES . . . . .	135
The Economic Floor, 135; Income Security, 136; Welfare Services, 137; National Education, 137; Special Problems of Education, 138; Socialized Medicine, 139; Neighborhood and Community Planning, 140; A Nonequalitarian Society, 141.
4. DEFENSE SERVICES . . . . .	141
Sea Power and Air Power, 141; Role of the Army, 142; Defense of the Empire, 142.
5. FOREIGN AFFAIRS . . . . .	143
Britain's Regional Interests, 143; Empire Routes, 143; Understandings with Other Powers, 144; Participation in International Bodies, 145.

CHAPTER 8. FROM EMPIRE TO COMMONWEALTH,

W. Hardy Wickwar

1. COLONIAL STATUS . . . . .	146
Powers of the Mother Country, 146; Privileges of the Colonial Territory, 146; Relations between Colony and Mother Country, 147.
2. DOMINION STATUS . . . . .	148
Cabinet Responsibility, 148; Continental Union, 148; Foreign Policy, 149; Claims of Independence, 149.
3. THE STATUTE OF WESTMINSTER . . . . .	150
Equality of Status, 150; Powers of the Imperial Parliament, 151; Bill of Rights for the Dominions, 152.
4. COMMONWEALTH UNITY . . . . .	152
Role of the Crown, 152; Legal Links, 152; Reciprocal Aid, 153; Commercial Regulation, 154; New Regulatory Means, 155; Nature of Relationship, 155; Parallel Partnership, 156; Political Significance of the Commonwealth, 156.
5. THE DEPENDENT EMPIRE . . . . .	157
Diversity in the Tropics, 157; International Position of Dependencies, 158; Economic Progress, 158; Governmental Advance, 159; Responsibility of the Colonies, 159; The Colonial Governor, 160; Unsolved Problems of Government, 161.
6. SELF-GOVERNMENT IN THE DEPENDENCIES . . . . .	161
Uncertainties of Approach, 161; Practical Examples, 162; Malayan Federation, 163; Indirect Rule in Africa, 163; Other Areas, 164; International Implications, 165.

CHAPTER 9. DOMINION GOVERNMENT, W. Hardy Wickwar

1. THE DOMINION OF NEW ZEALAND . . . . .	166
Inherited Common Features, 166; Social Laboratory, 167; Businesslike Socialism, 167; Maori Representation, 168.

	Page
2. THE COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA . . . . .	168
Constitutional Growth, 168; Adjusting the Federal Balance, 169; Policy Councils, 170; Aspects of Administration, 170; Labor's Strength, 171.
3. THE DOMINION OF CANADA . . . . .	171
Federal Principles, 171; Modification of Power Allocation, 172; Effects of Dominion Grants, 173; Federal Policy-making, 174; Other Characteristics of Political Life, 175.
4. THE UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA . . . . .	176
Diversity of Population, 176; Enforcement of Inferior Status, 176; Origins of Racial Inequality, 177; A Unitary State, 178; Provinces and Metropoles, 179.
5. EIRE . . . . .	179
Political Individuality, 179; Toward Independence, 180; National Self-rule, 181; Framework of the Constitution, 181; Organs of Government, 182; Political Problems, 182.
6. INDIA AND PAKISTAN . . . . .	183
Non-European Dominions, 183; Impact of the Foreigner, 184; Ways of Government, 184; Political Agitation, 185; Collapse of Unity, 186.
7. CEYLON . . . . .	187
Problems of Representation, 187; Securing Responsibility, 187; Achievement of Dominion Status, 189.

PART III. CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT: FRANCE AND ITALY

CHAPTER 10. THE PAST, Mario Einaudi

1. HISTORIC TENDENCIES . . . . .	193
Antecedents of French Constitutionalism, 193; Effects of the French Revolution, 193; Erection of the Third Republic, 194; Italy's Mosaic of States, 195; Constitutionalism by Royal Grant, 195; Royalist and Republican Traditions, 196.
2. FRANCE'S THIRD REPUBLIC . . . . .	196
Weakness of the Executive, 196; Position of the President, 197; Executive-Legislative Relations, 197; Administrative Diffusion, 198; Decline of Parliament, 198; Chamber Supremacy, 199; Contribution of the Senate, 200; Political Party Cleavages, 200; The Political Right, 201; The Political Center, 201; The Political Left, 202; The Leftist Split, 202; Anticlericalism, 203; Diminished Tension, 204; Stalemate of Reform, 204; Economic Factors, 204.
3. ITALY'S CONSTITUTIONAL MONARCHY . . . . .	205
Parliamentary System, 205; Centralized Government, 205; Local Government, 206; Rise of Christian Democracy, 206; Appeal of Socialism, 206; Leftist Extremism, 207; General Trends, 207.

4. FASCISM: ITALIAN AND FRENCH	208
Aftermath of the War, 208; Birth of the Italian Fascist Regime, 208; Principle of Hierarchy, 209; The Great Council, 209; Corporative Representation, 210; Enforced Unanimity, 210; Abolition of Liberties, 210; Fascist Economics, 210; Rise of the Vichy Regime, 211; Authoritarianism Redecorated, 212; Lack of Popular Acceptance, 212; Reliance on Force, 212.

CHAPTER 11. PRESENT-DAY FORCES AND ISSUES,

Mario Einaudi

1. THE RESISTANCE	213
Resistance in Italy, 213; Bases of Organized Resistance, 214; Communist Participation, 214; Part Played by Older Political Groups, 215; Resistance Abroad, 215.
2. THE COMMUNISTS	216
Main Sources of Support, 216; New Gains, 216; Leaders and Followers, 217; Commandments for the Faithful, 218; National Orientation, 218; Two Program Phases, 219; Early Political Goals, 219; Change of Approach, 220.
3. THE SOCIALISTS	221
Price of Compromise, 221; Marxism in Doubt, 221; Socialist Humanitarianism, 222; New Tactics, 222.
4. CHRISTIAN DEMOCRACY	222
Foundation of Doctrine, 222; Method of Freedom, 223; Attack on Liberalism, 224; Attack on Communism, 224; Christian Democracy's Alternative, 225; Economic Democracy, 225; Burden of the Center, 226.
5. THE POLITICAL RIGHT	226
Lines of Demarcation, 226; Shadow of Disaster, 227; De Gaulle's New Right, 227; Ominous Implications, 228.
6. ELECTORAL MACHINERY	229
Adoption of Proportional Representation, 229; Aiding the Larger Parties, 229; Further Legislation, 229; Italy's Election Law, 230.
7. ELECTORAL TRENDS	230
French National Elections, 230; French Municipal Elections, 232; Italian Elections, 232; Regional Strength of French Parties, 234.

CHAPTER 12. THE NEW CONSTITUTIONAL FRAMEWORK,

Mario Einaudi

1. THE COT CONSTITUTION	237
Communist Flavor, 237; A Supreme Legislature, 237; Rejection of the Constitution, 238.
2. THE BILL OF RIGHTS	239
General Features, 239; Character of the State, 239; Rights of Italians, 240; Use of Property, 240.

	Page
3. THE LEGISLATIVE POWER	241
Bicameralism—Equal and Unequal, 241; Electoral System, 242; Legislative Process, 242; Financial Powers, 243; Role of the Upper Chamber, 243; Delegation of Powers, 243; Popular Initiative and Referendum, 244; Executive Veto, 244.
4. THE EXECUTIVE POWER	244
Electing the President, 244; Presidential Powers, 245; Choice of Premier, 246; Position of the Cabinet, 246; Executive-Legislative Relations, 247.
5. REGIONALISM AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT	248
Scope of Local Autonomy, 248; Regional Functions, 249; National Interests, 249; Compromise Formula, 250.
6. AMENDING AND SAFEGUARDING THE CONSTITUTION	250
Amending Procedure, 250; Judicial Review, 251; Political Review in France, 251; Italy's Constitutional Court, 252.
7. THE FRENCH UNION	253
A New Commitment, 253; Freedom versus Central Control, 253; Organs and Powers of the Union, 253; Representatives from Overseas, 254.
 CHAPTER 13. EMERGING CONSTITUTIONAL PRACTICE IN FRANCE, Mario Einaudi
1. PRESIDENT AND CABINET	255
Growing Presidential Prestige, 255; Exercise of Presidential Power, 256; Cabinet Solidarity, 257; Enforcing Solidarity, 257; Party Instructions, 258.
2. PARLIAMENT AND ADMINISTRATION	259
Party Discipline, 259; Parliamentary Tendencies, 259; Functions of the Judicial Council, 260; Expansion of Public Administration, 261; Proposals for Administrative Reform, 261.
3. THE FUTURE OF CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT	262
Constitutional Principles and Political Realities, 262; Fact and Fiction—Seen Through Red Glasses, 263; General de Gaulle's Constitutional Views, 263; Indictment of the Party System, 264; Interest Organization, 265.
4. FREEDOM OF THE PRESS	266
Honesty and Profit, 266; Control of Ideology, 266; Building a New Press, 267; Transitional Law of the Press, 268; Need for Permanent Legislation, 269; Problems of Ownership and Control, 269; Ethics of the Press, 270.
 CHAPTER 14. EXTENDING THE PUBLIC SECTOR OF THE ECONOMY, Mario Einaudi
1. THE ADVANCE OF NATIONALIZATION	271
Incentives to Greater Public Control, 271; Differences of Approach, 271; Origins of Nationalization in Italy, 272; Bailing Out the Banks, 273; Preparing for War, 273; Inherited Arrangements, 274; Origins of Nationalization in France, 275; Public and Private Morality, 276; Economic Motives, 277.

2. AGREEMENT AND CONFLICT OVER NATIONALIZATION . . . . .	278
Area of Nationalization, 278; Compensation and Patriotism, 279; Computation and Payment, 279.
3. ORGANIZATION OF NATIONALIZED INDUSTRIES . . . . .	280
Interest Representation, 280; Division of Functions, 281; Operating Autonomy, 282; Higher Controls, 282; Close Supervision, 283.
4. THE GENERAL OUTLOOK . . . . .	283
Future of Economic Self-Government, 283; Proposed Changes, 284; Nationalization and Planning, 284; Economic Control and Western Cooperation, 285.

PART IV. CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT:
THE SCANDINAVIAN TRADITION

CHAPTER 15. CONSTITUTIONAL MONARCHY AND SOCIAL DEMOCRACY, John Brown Mason

1. THE GENERAL BACKGROUND . . . . .	289
Common Characteristics, 289; Lands and Peoples, 290; From Absolutism to Constitutional Government, 290.
2. STRUCTURE OF GOVERNMENT . . . . .	292
Parliamentary Government, 292; Legislative Control, 293; The Executive Structure, 294; Administration of Justice, 294; Judicial Review and Personal Rights, 295; Provincial and Local Government, 296.
3. THE GENERAL WELFARE . . . . .	296
Social Welfare, 296; Labor Security, 297; Aid to Agriculture, 298; Aid to Housing, 298; Scope of the Cooperative Movement, 299.
4. INTERPLAY OF POLITICAL FORCES . . . . .	300
Party System, 300; Party Organization and Elections, 301; Denmark's Wartime Fate, 301; Norway's Defense and Aftermath, 302; Sweden's Neutrality, 302; Danish Postwar Politics, 303; Norway's Reconsolidation, 304; Sweden's Reorientation, 305; Scandinavia between East and West, 305.

PART V. FEDERAL GOVERNMENT: THE CENTRAL EUROPEAN RECORD

CHAPTER 16. THE GERMAN EMPIRE AND THE
WEIMAR REPUBLIC, John Brown Mason

1. NATIONAL UNIFICATION . . . . .	309
Germany's Legacy of Contradictions, 309; Regional Differences, 310; Road toward National Unity, 311; A Strong National Executive, 311; Exercise of the Legislative Power, 312; Reich-State Relations, 313; Political Parties, 314; Political Issues, 315; Record of the Empire, 315; Wartime Changes, 316.

	Page
2. ADVENT OF THE REPUBLIC . . . . .	317
Ascendancy of the Social Democrats, 317; Revolutionary and Counterrevolutionary Movements, 317; The Complexion of the Constituent Assembly, 317; Spirit of the New Constitution, 318.
3. THE CONSTITUTIONAL SYSTEM . . . . .	319
Status of the President, 319; Regular and Emergency Powers, 319; Chancellor and Cabinet, 320; Relations with the Länder , 321; Politics and the Civil Service, 322; Structure and Procedure of the Reichstag, 322; Functions of the Reichsrat, 323; Judicial Independence, 323.
4. CONTEST OF POLITICAL FORCES . . . . .	324
Parties of the Right, 324; Parties of the Middle, 325; Parties of the Left, 325; Party Organization and Methods, 326; Proportional Representation, 327; State within a State: The Army, 328; Death of the Republic, 328.
CHAPTER 17. THE HITLER NIGHTMARE AND POSTWAR RECONSTRUCTION, John Brown Mason
1. THE RISE OF TOTALITARIANISM . . . . .	329
Hitler: Man and Movement, 329; Retention of Power, 330; Articles of Faith, 331; Structure and Task of the Nazi Party, 331; Demise of Democratic Government, 332; Hitler's Entry upon the Chancellorship, 332.
2. THE FÜHRERSTAAT . . . . .	333
Position of the Führer, 333; Executive Structure, 334; Lawmaking by Decree, 334; Creation of the Unitary State, 335; Status of the Party, 336; Echo of the People, 336; Politically Guided Justice, 337.
3. ADMINISTRATIVE TRANSFORMATIONS . . . . .	338
Making the Civil Service Politically Reliable, 338; Abolition of Local Self-Government, 339; Changes in Administrative Law, 340.
4. TOTAL CONTROL . . . . .	341
Control of the Economy, 341; Control of Labor, 341; Control of Culture, 342; Nazification of Schools, 342; Transformation of Universities, 343; Struggle with the Protestant Church, 343; Opposition by the Catholic Church, 344; Ideological Eugenics, 345; Hitler's Foreign Policy, 346.
5. GERMANY IN THE POSTWAR PERIOD . . . . .	346
Reich in Shambles, 346; Allied Military Government, 347; Länder Governments, 348; Political Parties, 349; Hunger and Democracy, 350; Germany's New Federalism, 350; Prospects for German Democracy, 351.

CHAPTER 18. REPUBLICAN AUSTRIA, John Brown Mason

1. POLITICAL EVOLUTION . . . . .	352
Bridge or Buffer, 352; Dual Monarchy, 352; Independent Austria, 352: A Viable State?, 353.

2. ALTERNATIVES OF GOVERNMENT . . . . .	353
Constitution and Constitutional Change, 353; Rise of Dollfuss, 354; Constitution of the Corporate State, 355; A Catholic State?, 356; From Hitler's Rule to Liberation, 356; Austrian Federalism, 356; Powers of the Federal Government, 357; Development of the Presidency, 357; Chancellor and Cabinet, 358; Bicameralism, 358; Composition of the Federal Council, 359; Federal Legislation, 359; Proportional Representation, 360; Judicial Review, 360.
3. STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT . . . . .	361
Powers of State Government, 361; Vienna's Economic and Social Policies, 362; Local Self-Government, 362.
4. SHIFTS OF POLITICAL ORIENTATION . . . . .	363
Party Solidarity, 363; Christian Social Attitudes, 364; Socialism to the Left, 365; Communist Growth, 366.
5. AUSTRIA—FREE AND UNFREE . . . . .	366
Division into Zones, 366; Economic Conditions, 367; Political Resurgence, 367; Pressure from the Soviets, 368; Austria's International Status, 368.

CHAPTER 19. SWITZERLAND, John Brown Mason

1. THE CONSTITUTIONAL FOUNDATION . . . . .	369
Special American Interest, 369; Linguistic and Religious Diversity, 369; Road toward National Unity, 370; Establishment of the Federal Union, 371; Revised Constitution of 1874, 371; Expansion of Federal Power, 372.
2. THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT . . . . .	373
Organization of the Executive, 373; Powers of the Federal Council, 374; Stability of the Executive, 375; Competence of the Civil Service, 375; Powers of the Legislature, 376; Procedure of the Federal Assembly, 376; Composition of the Chambers, 377; Unity of Justice, 378.
3. CANTONAL AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT . . . . .	379
Cantons and Their Powers, 379; Nature of the Landsgemeinde , 380; Cantonal Parliaments, 380; Cantonal Executive Power, 381; Cantonal Elections, 381; Local Self-Government, 382.
4. THE POLITICAL PROCESS . . . . .	383
Organization of the Political Parties, 383; Conservative Parties, 383; Liberal Parties, 384; The Communists and other Extremists, 385; Party Strength, 385; Conditions of Suffrage, 386; Direct Democracy, 386; Forms of the Referendum, 386; Forms of the Initiative, 387.
5. THE INDIVIDUAL AND THE NATION . . . . .	388
Tradition of Citizenship, 388; Citizen Soldier, 389; Policy of Neutrality, 390; Developments and Outlook, 390.

PART VI. THE SOCIALIST STATE: THE SOVIET UNION AND ITS ORBIT

CHAPTER 20. RUSSIA AND MARXISM, John N. Hazard

	Page
1. THE RUSSIAN PEASANT . . . . .	395
Land of Peasants, 395; Effects of Serfdom, 395; Legacy of Suspicion, 396; Aftermath of the Emancipation, 397; Quest for Spiritual Ease, 397; Variety of Native Stock, 398; National Wealth, 399.
2. ABSOLUTISM AND DEMOCRACY . . . . .	400
Tradition of Autocracy, 400; Early Reforms, 400; Era of Indecision, 401; Local Citizen Participation, 402; Repression of Autonomy, 403.
3. SURGE OF REVOLUTION . . . . .	404
Currents of Rebellion, 404; Influx of Marxist Ideas, 405; Emergence of Lenin, 405; Problems of Revolutionary Organization, 406; Lenin's Doctrine, 407.
4. SOVIETS—NEW INSTRUMENT OF GOVERNMENT . . . . .	408
Lesson of the Revolution of 1905, 408; Failure of Political Representation, 409; End of Tsardom, 410; Power of the Soviet, 411; Dual Government, 411; Growth of the Soviets, 412; Seizure of Power, 412.
5. MARXISM—ITS OPPORTUNITY . . . . .	413
Control of Production, 413; Looking toward a Blueprint, 414; Economic Transformation, 415; Steps toward Retention of Power, 415.

CHAPTER 21. THE ONE-PARTY SYSTEM, John N. Hazard

1. PARTY MONOPOLY . . . . .	417
Party and Opinion, 417; Status of the Party, 418; Scope of Party Membership, 418; Resolution of the Class Struggle, 419.
2. THE PARTY'S PROGRAM AND METHODS . . . . .	420
Verbal Symbols, 420; Preamble of Intentions, 420; Basic Principles, 421; Rules of the Party, 422; Destruction of National Partitions, 423; Main Organs of the Party, 423; Specialized Party Agencies, 424; Regional and Local Agencies, 425; Volunteer Effort, 426.
3. PARTY DEMOCRACY AND DISCIPLINE . . . . .	426
Stimulation of Discussion, 426; Factionalism and Discipline, 427; Enforcement of Discipline, 428; Control over Party Membership, 428; Admission Standards, 429; Intellectual Guidance, 430.
4. SUPPORT FROM YOUTH . . . . .	431
Winning the Rising Generation, 431; Program of the Komsomols, 432; Structure of the Komsomols, 432; Membership in the Komsomols, 433; Tasks of the Pioneers, 433; Tasks of the Little Octobrists, 434.
5. MASS SUPPORT . . . . .	434
Supporting Organizations, 434; Early Role of the Labor Unions, 435; Promoting Socialist Competition, 435; Structure of Labor Unions, 436; Membership and Finance, 437; Recognition of Cooperatives, 437; Cooperative Organization and Management, 438; Structure of Collective Farms, 439; Benefits of Collective Farms, 440; Integration of Collective Farms, 440.

CHAPTER 22. GOVERNMENTAL STRUCTURE AND POLITICAL CONTROL, John N. Hazard

	Page
1. CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY . . . . .	442
Introduction of the Soviet Principle, 442; Toward a Soviet Constitution, 443; Bases of Soviet Federalism, 443; Pressure for Union, 444; Foundations of the Soviet Union, 445; Union and Constitutional Revision, 446; Adjustments in the Structure of the Union, 447.
2. REJECTION OF THE SEPARATION OF POWERS . . . . .	447
Principle of Concentration, 447; Lack of Sharp Division of Functions, 448; Structure of the Judiciary, 448; Federal Courts, 449; Federal Supreme Court, 449; Federal Prosecutor General, 450.
3. POLICY DETERMINATION IN THE UNION . . . . .	451
Federal Powers, 451; Role of the Supreme Soviet, 451; Power of the Presidium, 452; Procedure of the Supreme Soviet, 453; Action on the Five Year Plan, 453; Action on Other Kinds of Business, 454; Countersignature of the Communist Party, 454.
4. POLICY DETERMINATION IN THE REPUBLICS . . . . .	455
Right to Secede, 455; Federal Integration, 456; Functions of Supreme Soviets of the Republics, 457; Effecting Changes in the Budget, 457; Step Toward Increased Autonomy, 458.
5. PROVINCIAL AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT . . . . .	459
Initial Controversy, 459; Basis of Representation, 459; Decrease of Policy-making Authority, 460; Conducting Local Soviet Business, 460; Metropolitan Soviet Government, 461.
6. THE ELECTORAL SYSTEM . . . . .	462
Elimination of Discriminatory Exclusion, 462; Loss of the Vote by Foreigners, 463; Establishment of Direct Election, 463; Other Innovations, 464; Aftermath of Functional Concept of Representation, 465; Unchanged Method of Nomination, 466; Absence of Election Contests, 466; Choice of Single Candidates, 467.

CHAPTER 23. SOCIALIST ADMINISTRATION AND THE PUBLIC INTEREST, John N. Hazard

1. INHERENT ADMINISTRATIVE PROBLEMS . . . . .	468
A Collegial Executive, 468; Changing Character of the Council of People's Commissars, 468; Categories of Commissariats, 469; Industrial Commissariats, 470; Agencies Attached to the Council of Ministers, 471; Ministerial Organization, 472.
2. QUEST FOR ADMINISTRATIVE EFFICIENCY . . . . .	472
Experiment with Functional Organization, 472; Structural Reform, 473; Federal Field Representation, 474; Two-way Relationships, 474; Relations of Union-Republic Ministries, 475; Organization of Planning, 475; Attainment of the National Plan, 476.

	Page
3. PROVINCIAL AND LOCAL SOVIETS AS ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES . . . . .	476
Federal Principles, 476; Constitutional Provisions of the Republics, 477; Status of City Soviets, 477; Hierarchical Unity of Administration, 478.
4. MANAGEMENT OF ECONOMIC ENTERPRISES . . . . .	478
Trial and Error, 478; Effect of the New Economic Policy, 479; Development of Managerial Responsibility, 480; Call for Managers, 481; Advice of Factory Organs, 481; Effecting Managerial Responsibility, 482; Government Corporations, 482; Accounting Procedure, 483; Accounting as Control, 484; Arbitration Tribunals, 484.
 CHAPTER 24. INDIVIDUAL INTERESTS AND COLLECTIVE NEEDS, John N. Hazard
1. CIVIL RIGHTS AND DUTIES . . . . .	486
Collective Organization and Personal Freedom, 486; Acknowledgment of Rights, 486; Civil Liberties and Class, 487; Civic Obligation, 487; Economic Rights, 488; Restriction of Personal Freedom, 488; Right to Question, 489.
2. CAREER OFFICIALDOM AND RESPONSIBILITY . . . . .	490
Applicability of General Laws, 490; Special Legislation, 490; Change of Control Agencies, 491; Classification Process, 491; Examination and Recruitment, 492; Control over Personnel, 493.
3. EMPLOYMENT SECURITY . . . . .	493
Prohibition of Strikes, 493; Main Areas of Conflict, 494; Procedure for Labor Protest, 494; Record of a Case, 495; Safeguards against Arbitrary Managerial Decisions, 496; Administrative Redress for the Citizen, 496; Balance of Interests, 496.
4. RESTRAINT OF RECALCITRANTS . . . . .	497
Crimes against the State, 497; Operation of the Criminal Law, 498; Extrajudicial Sanctions, 499; From Cheka to OGPU, 499; Development of the NKVD, 500.
5. CONTROL OF ADMINISTRATION BY COMPLAINT . . . . .	501
Voice of the Press, 501; Deputy Reports and Complaint Bureaus, 502; Quest for Popular Support, 502; Nature of the Soviet Leadership, 502.
 CHAPTER 25. SOVIET CONSOLIDATION—BLUEPRINT FOR THE FUTURE?, John N. Hazard
1. SOCIALISM IN ONE COUNTRY . . . . .	504
Creating Conditions of Socialism, 504; Failure of Revolution Abroad, 505; Basic Controversy, 505; Liquidation of the Opposition, 506; Lesson of World War II, 506.
2. WORLD REVOLUTION REBORN . . . . .	507
New Communist World Leadership, 507; Troublesome Factors, 508; Birth of the Cominform, 509.

	Page
3. SOVIET FOREIGN POLICY AND THE RUSSIAN HERITAGE . . . . .	509
Window to the West, 509; Threat of Invasion, 510; Fear of Insecurity, 510; Bulwarks in the East, South, and West, 511; Policy toward Germany, 512; Participation in International Bodies, 512.
4. STATE POWER AND CLASSLESS SOCIETY . . . . .	513
Establishment of Socialism, 513; End of the State?, 514; Stalin's View, 514; Settlement of the Issue, 515; State and Communism, 516.

CHAPTER 26. VARIATIONS ON THE SOVIET THEME: DANUBIAN GOVERNMENTS, Andrew Gyorgy

1. TRENDS AND PROBLEMS . . . . .	517
Shadow of the Soviet Union, 517; Similarities of Development, 518; Impact of Power Politics, 518; Characteristics of the Danubian Area, 519.
2. CZECHOSLOVAKIA . . . . .	520
A Hopeful Beginning, 520; Stature of the President, 520; Cabinet Responsibility, 521; Bicameralism, 522; Postwar Political Parties, 522; Communist Victory and Strategy, 523; Communist Seizure of Power, 524; Early Economic Recovery and the Two Year Plan, 525; Foreign Orientation, 526.
3. HUNGARY . . . . .	527
Constitutional Development, 527; Outline of Government, 528; Postwar Parties, 529; Communist Engineering, 530; Economic Reconstruction, 531; Looking Ahead, 532.
4. YUGOSLAVIA . . . . .	532
Postwar Constitutional Development, 532; Collectivist Planning, 534; People's Committees, 534; Tito's People's Front, 535; Three Principal Agencies, 536; Foreign Policies, 536.
5. COMMON PROBLEMS . . . . .	537
Federative Plans, 537; Anti-Western Trends, 538; Military Integration, 538.

PART VII. RECONSTRUCTION GOVERNMENT: CHINA AND JAPAN

CHAPTER 27. IDEOLOGICAL DYNAMICS OF THE POSTWAR FAR EAST, Paul M. A. Linebarger

1. JAPAN'S NEW WAY . . . . .	543
Occurrence of the Unbelievable, 543; Historic Influence, 544; Character of Japanese Aggression, 545; Japanese Parliamentarism, 545; New Purposes, 546.
2. CURRENT JAPANESE IDEOLOGIES . . . . .	546
Repudiated Militarism, 546; Middle-to-Left Politics, 547; Socialists and Communists, 548.

	Page
3. CHINESE COMMUNISM	548
Native Roots, 548; Communist Organization, 549; Personal Leadership, 549; Chinese-Russian Contacts, 550.
4. IDEOLOGICAL POSITION OF THE KUOMINTANG	551
Characteristics of the Kuomintang, 551; Sun Yat-sen, 551; Chiang—Party Leader, 553; Kuomintang Principles, 553; Party Changes, 554; Loss of Party Zeal, 555; Present Kuomintang Power, 555; Minor Parties, 555.
CHAPTER 28. SOURCES OF POWER IN THE POSTWAR FAR EAST, Paul M. A. Linebarger
1. THE EGGSHELL OF A DEMOCRATIC JAPAN	558
The Nonrevolutionary Liberation, 558; Allied Controls, 559; Connecting Link, 560; The One Perfect State, 560.
2. VIOLENCE IN POSTWAR JAPAN	561
Violence in Japanese Ethics, 561; Political Assassination, 562; Changing Outlook, 562.
3. AUTHORITY AND WEALTH IN POSTWAR JAPAN	563
A Sober Capitalism, 563; Economics under Occupation, 563; Fundamental Problems, 564.
4. CLASS AND WAR IN CHINA	564
Contrasting Approaches, 564; Cycle of Peasant Revolts, 565; Positive Growth, 565; Nationalist Class Function, 566; Communist Class Basis, 567; Tendency and Outlook, 568.
CHAPTER 29. GOVERNMENT IN JAPAN, Paul M. A. Linebarger
1. THE EMPEROR AS AN EX-GOD	569
Life by Prescription, 569; Living up to the Meiji Constitution, 569; Emperor-God and National Need, 571; Dualism of Government, 571; Denial of Godship, 571.
2. THE MACARTHUR CONSTITUTION	572
Obedient Overlord, 572; Use of the Emperor's Power, 573; Shinto Disestablishment, 573; General Framework of the MacArthur Constitution, 574; Formal Source, 574; Imperial House Law, 575; Renunciation of War, 576; Position of Parliament, 576; Judicial Provisions, 576; Decentralization, 577; Amendment, 577.
3. THE PARLIAMENTARY CABINET SYSTEM	577
Continuity, 577; Structure and Powers of the Diet, 578; Legislative-Executive Relations, 579; Parties and Diet Procedure, 581; Political Flux and Party Bureaucracies, 582; Prospects of Parliamentary Leadership, 583.

4. NATIONAL AND LOCAL ADMINISTRATION IN JAPAN . . . . .	583
Record of Responsibility, 583; Structure of the Cabinet ( Naijaku ), 584; Administrative Changes, 585; New Agencies, 586; Work of the Central Liaison Office, 586; Administrative Morale and Traditions, 587; Effect of Institutional Inertia, 588; Composition of the Civil Service, 588; Administration of Economic Controls, 589; Local Government Structure, 590; New Local Government, 591; End of a Police State, 592.
 CHAPTER 30. GOVERNMENT IN CHINA, Paul M. A. Linebarger
1. THE POSITION OF CHIANG KAI-SHEK . . . . .	594
Two Heads of State: Chiang and Hirohito, 594; Legacy of Sun Yat-sen, 595; Warring Heirs to the Revolution, 596; Life of Chiang, 596; Character and Associates, 597.
2. THE SEARCH FOR CONSTITUTIONAL FORM . . . . .	598
Family and Village, 598; Government by Association, 599; Early Constitutions, 600; Governmental Succession, 601; Nationalist Government, Soviet in Form, 601; Period of Tutelage (1928-47), 602; Outline of Government, 602; End of Tutelage, 603; Review of the New Constitution, 604; Use of the Vote, 607.
3. THE GOVERNMENTAL STRUCTURE . . . . .	608
Transition Government, 608; End of Transition, 610; Presidential Status and Office of the President, 610; Role of the Constitutional Cabinet, 611; Functions of the Legislative Yüan , 612; Examination and Control, 612; Ministries and Commissions, 613; Provincial Government, 614.
4. THE COMMUNIST PARTY AS A COMPETING GOVERNMENT . . . . .	615
Fostering Cohesion, 615; Class Economics as Reality, 616; Guerrilla Islands, 616; Communist Democracy, 617; Facing the Issue, 618.

PART VIII. LATIN AMERICA: MEXICO AND BRAZIL

CHAPTER 31. MEXICO: FROM REVOLUTION TOWARD CONSTITUTIONALISM, Henry P. Jordan

1. UNITY AND DIVERSITY IN LATIN AMERICAN POLITICS . . . . .	621
Appropriate Caution, 621; Geographic Influences and Economic Bases, 621; Settlement and Colonial Organization, 623; Characteristics of Political Evolution, 624; Order and Revolt, 625; Mexico and Brazil in the International Scene, 626; Outlook for Democracy, 627.
2. THE MAKING OF MODERN MEXICO . . . . .	627
Political and Social Antecedents, 627; Independence under a Federal Constitution, 628; Reaction and the Rise of Juárez, 629; Policies of Juárez, 630; Rule of Díaz, 631.

	Page
3. THE REVOLUTION OF 1910 AND THE CONSTITUTION OF 1917 . . . . .	632
Madero and Civil War, 632; Revolution by Constitution, 633; Changes in Constitutional Structure, 634; Constitutional Amendments, 635; Social Questions in the Constitution, 635; Agrarian Reform, 636; Church, Education, and Labor, 637; Appraisal, 637.
4. POLITICAL DYNAMICS . . . . .	638
Early Struggles, 638; From Calles to Cárdenas, 639; Progress of Reform, 640; Party Organization and Methods, 641; Retrenchment and War, 642; New Trends under Alemán, 643; Constitutional Process and the Church, 643; Education as Collective Enterprise, 644.
5. OUTLOOK FOR THE FUTURE . . . . .	644
Mexico in World War II, 644; Postwar Economic Crisis, 646; Record of Nationalization, 647; Mexico's Foreign Policy, 647; Mexico's Role in the United Nations, 648; Summary and Prospects, 649.

CHAPTER 32. BRAZIL: FROM DICTATORSHIP TOWARD CONSTITUTIONALISM, Henry P. Jordan

1. THE MAKING OF MODERN BRAZIL . . . . .	650
Legacy of Tradition, 650; Independence through Monarchy, 651; First Constitution, 653; Pedro II and Parliamentary Government, 654; End of the Monarchy, 655; Constitution of the Republic, 657; Politics and Depression, 658.
2. THE VARGAS DICTATORSHIP . . . . .	659
New Constitution, 659; Reaching the Goal, 661; Political Reality, 661; Aims, Methods, and Instrumentalities, 663; Social and Economic Reforms, 665.
3. TOWARD LIMITED DEMOCRACY . . . . .	666
Vargas' Fall, 666; Back to Federalism, 668; Other Features of the Constitution, 669; Rejection of Laissez Faire and Restrictions on Democracy, 669.
4. CURRENT TENDENCIES . . . . .	671
Postwar Crisis, 671; Foreign Policy, 671; Summary and Prospects, 672.

PART IX. SOVEREIGNTY—ROAD BLOCK OR STEPPING STONE?

CHAPTER 33. THE CHANGING FACE OF THE NATION-STATE, Fritz Morstein Marx

1. THE GOVERNING AND THE GOVERNED . . . . .	677
Growth of National Power, 677; Weakness of Popular Control, 677; Pressing Questions, 678; Unsolved Problems, 678; Legislative-Executive Relations, 679; Evolution of the Executive Power, 679; Effects of the Career Bureaucracy, 681; Potentialities of Administrative Justice, 681; Significance of the Party System, 682; Defeat of Cooperative Instinct?, 682.

2. THE INFLUENCE OF STRAIN . . . . . 683
 Democracy and Security, 683; Origin of Restrictive Pressures, 684; Influence of Totalitarianism, 685; Tightening of Security Standards, 686; Demand for Solidarity, 687; Limits to Juridical Defense, 687; Exposure of the Individual, 688;
 Maintaining Essential Standards, 688.
- CHAPTER 34. THE INDIVIDUAL AND THE INTERNATIONAL ORDER, Fritz Morstein Marx
1. THE ROAD TO PEACE . . . . . 690
 Utopian Internationalism, 690; World-wide Duality, 690; Use of International Bodies, 691; Uneasy Balance, 692; Distant Opportunity?, 692; Essential Conditions of Mind, 693.
2. TREATING THE ILLS OF THE NATION-STATE . . . . . 693
 Top-heavy Structure, 693; Bridging the Gulf of Politics, 694; Philosophy of Citizenship, 694; Drawing Government toward the Citizen, 695; Training in Cooperation, 695.
3. THE INDIVIDUAL'S PART . . . . . 696
 Seeking Opportunities for Self-expression, 696; Temptations of Convenience, 696; Need for Civic Courage, 697.