Contents

List of Tables 13
Abbreviations 15
Introduction 17

1. Defective Capitalism 28

1.1 Hungary: Re-feudahsation, Unequal Specialisation, Backwardness 29
   1.1.1 Re-feudalisation 29
   Divergent Development 30
   Restitution of Noble Privileges 30
   Constrained Development 32
   1.1.2 Agricultural Specialisation 33
   The Demise of Trade 34
   Complementary Imperial Incorporation 35
   External Imperial Modernisation 36

1.2 Factors of Irish Underdevelopment 37
   1.2.1 De-industrialisation 38
   Irish Proto-Industrialisation 38
   External and Internal Factors of Deindustrialisation 39
   The Act of the Union (1801) 42
   1.2.2 Emigration 43
   The Transformation of Agriculture 43
   Detrimental Development Effects 45

1.3 Agricultural Export Dependency 46

1.4 Socioeconomic Effects 47
   1.4.1 Hungary 47
   Noble Ascendancy 48
   The Ethnic Dimension 49
   The Social Dimension 50
   1.4.2 Ireland 51
   Agrarian Interests 52
   Labour Interests 53
   Party Political Structure 53

1.1 Constrained Industrialisation 55
2. Failed Industrialisation Attempts

2.1 The Concept of the Development Regime
2.1.1 Capacity and Autonomy
2.1.2 Popular Consent and Dissent

2.2 Hungarian Development Regimes
2.2.1 The Dual Monarchy (1867-1919)
The First Phase: Export Orientation and Laissez-Faire
The Second Phase: Industrial Protectionism
Results of Dualism
2.2.2 Economic Nationalism (1921-1944)
Changed Environment for Development
Post-WWI Reconstruction Regime
The Rise of the Right and Revisionist Consent
2.2.3 Hungarian Socialism (1948-1990)
The State-Socialist Development Regime
The Results of Forced Capital Accumulation
The Revolution of 1956 and the Ascent of Kádárism
The Era of Continuous Reforms
The Demise of Socialism
2.2.4 Continued Hungarian Backwardness

2.3 Irish Development Regimes
2.3.1 The Free State (1922-1932)
The Free State Development Regime
Restrained Capacity and Strong Autonomy
The Results of Laissez-Faire
2.3.2 Protectionism (1932-1958)
Protectionist Autonomy and Restrained Capacity
The Results of Protectionism

2.4 Autonomy, Capacity and Consent

3. The Current FDI-Led Development Regime

3.1 Envisaged Effects of FDI-led Development
3.1.1 Macroeconomic Effects
3.1.2 Microeconomic Effects

3.2 Preconditions
3.2.1 Attraction Strategy
3.2.2 Macro and Micro-Coordination
3.2.3 Implications for State Autonomy, Capacity and Consent

3.3 The Hungarian FDI-led Development Regime
3.3.1 External and Internal Factors for Hungarian FDI-Attraction
3.3.2 Hungarian Regime Readjustments
Crisis Management (1990-1994) 119
Strategic Reorientation and Stabilisation (1994-1998) 126
Creation of a Counter-Movement (1998-2002) 130

3.4 The Irish FDI-led Development Regime
3.4.1 The 1958 Revolution? 135
3.4.2 Regime Readjustments in Ireland
The Golden Age of Irish Economic Growth (1955-1973) 139
Decades of Crisis (1973-1987) 143
The Rise of the “Network State” 148

3.5 Complementarity and Divergence 154

4. Uneven FDI-led Development 156
4.1 Dualism 157
4.1.1 Industrial Dualism 157
4.1.2 Social Dichotomy 159
4.2 FDI-led Transition in Hungary 160
4.2.1 Economic Impact of FDI in Hungary
Extent of TNC Penetration 161
Impact on Trade 162
The Issue of Transfer Pricing 165
4.2.2 Linkages 166
Direct and Indirect Linkages 167
4.2.3 Indigenous Firms 169
4.2.4 Characteristics of Indigenous Firms
Socialist Legacies and Transition 172
Product Market Competition 173
Factor Market Competition 173
Political Neglect 175
4.2.5 Dichotomy of Industry in Hungary 177
4.3 Hidden Inequality in Hungary 177
4.3.1 General Trends in Hungarian Income Inequality
Income Dispersion 178
4.3.2 Transitional Winners and Losers
Earnings Mobility 181
Skill-Biased Labour Demand 181
Collective Bargaining and Inequality 183
4.3.3 Social Implications
Household Income Inequality 186
Income Poverty and Deprivation 186
4.3.4 Inequality, Poverty and the Hungarian State
Transformation of the Hungarian Welfare State
Inequality Reduction
Poverty Alleviation
4.3.5 Hungarian Social Dichotomy
4.4 The Irish Stepping Stone
4.4.1 Foreign-Owned Growth in Ireland
TNC Penetration
Impact on Irish Trade
Transfer Pricing Distortions
4.4.2 Linkages
Pecuniary and Productive Linkages
Spillover Effects
4.4.3 Irish Indigenous Industry
The Nature of Irish-owned Industry
Displacement Effects
Factor Market Competition Effects
The Internal Demand Factor
Political Neglect
4.4.4 Dichotomous Irish Industrial Structure
4.5 Irish Open Inequality
4.5.1 Irish Income Inequality
Labour Market Supply and Demand Factors
Social Partnership
4.5.2 Social Implications
Household Income Distribution
Poverty and Exclusion
4.5.3 Poverty, Inequality and the Irish State
The Irish Welfare State
Redistribution, Poverty Alleviation and Inclusion
Social Partnership Revisited
4.5.4 Irish Social Dichotomy
4.6 Results of FDI-led Development in Hungary and Ireland
Conclusion: Myth or Mirage?
Bibliography